Devotional Thoughts :: Why I don't go to church

Why I don't go to church - posted by savannah, on: 2016/6/3 8:10

After reading this post on another thread...,

"It is shocking not to see unbelievers pounding on the door to seek salvation after reading this thread",

...I thought I would post the following link:

Such is the real reason we do not "see unbelievers pounding on the door to seek salvation."

I clicked on your link, and began watching and then was pulled like a magnet to the right side to finalcall07 Dont Go To Church Go to Jesus.

If unbelievers carry the same attitude and mocking condescension that the writer of this letter does then no wonder they don't come to church. The writer of the letter, a true son of pride, has far more problems than the church and churches h e criticizes. Even if they need criticism his problems go very much deeper than just being offended at the way churches do things. Have no doubt about it, God purposefully hides His face from such contempt and hateful pride.

Before you sign-off please tell me...did you listen to the 6 minute letter? And also, was the magnetic force(as you describ e it)a positive or a negative?

Linda,

If you are still on the Internet, I was wondering if you missed my last post which I posed a question to you.

Thanks
