Please forgive me if this is not the most appropriate topic but what has the world come to? There are now dating websites where people with STD's can date other people with STD's.

Quote:

-----From stdmatch.net to datingwithherpes.com, Web sites abound for the infected who want to date the infected.

Oh, dear, it likely would not be appropriate for me to voice my opinion...except people no longer think...the more technology, the more self-esteem they have the less common sense they use.

This reminds me of my second cousins' lover. He died from AIDS and after his death declared he is going to infect as many people as he can with AIDS!
