Lakeland Revival Comes to Phoenix ... Growing in the Supernatural 3,
May 28 - June 1!

God recently spoke to Patricia and told her not to call Growing in the Supernatural 3 a conference. He told her to name it a REVIVAL! She is recently back from the Lakeland Healing Revival with Todd Bentley, and so are many of the other speakers who are coming for Supernatural 3. Every one of the ministers is praying into an explosion of revival to be released in the meetings and to everyone in attendance. Patricia, Bobby Conner, Keith Miller, and all the other speakers who have been to Lakeland are going to impart what they received while there. Don't miss it!

Last night at the XPerience, we laid hands on every person in attendance and that spirit of revival we received in Lakeland exploded through the meeting and touched everyone there. It was awesome! Growing in the Supernatural 3 will take it to a whole 'nother level as we all gather together to worship and cry out to heaven! What splashed down in Lakeland is going to spread ... be here to be a part of it

This is a warning!

Those in Phoenix had better heed the warning, both Christians and non-Christians.

The thing is, people want to 'see'. They want to see the supernatural, unusual and the novel.

And so, they will turn up.

We just have to hope that those who turn up don't get caught up in it.

Thanks for the warning. I'm not familiar with this Growing in the Supernatural conference but I will pass along the warning to all that I can here in Phoenix.

We need to pray against the spirit behind this false "revival" and also be prepared to minister from the truth of Scripture to those who get caught up in this.

In Christ,

Ron

Can someone please tell me exactly what makes you think that the "revival" in Florida is a fake one?

I know very little about it, or who is involved in it. I hear about people suffering demonic attacks from watching a video of it, and I know that Andrew Strom is very much against it, but I am very unsure of why.

I'd really like more info on it. Anyone?

I would prefer that we wouldn't refer to this thing as a "revival."

Just a thought.

Amen this is kinda like the same thing, as Krispy referred to on the politics and the voting. If they are Chrsitians, you sho uldn't have to tell them who to vote for. What happened the scriptures talking about the false prophet being smooth oper ators? This guy is obvious. Should we throw out the passages about the false prophet being a smooth operator? I don't t hink so. Can anyone find a scripture where a characteristic of a false prophet, is one who warns that the real prophet is f alse? I can't refer to one right off, I'll reseach that, just throwing the question out there for some good bereans.

Hey all,

I hold an opinion on the Lakeland deal and that now is apparently moving to Phoenix but wanted to share something of interest found in the writings of Henry Scougal, The Life of God in the Soul of Man. Henry is speaking of divine life and t he root of that divine life being faith and its branches are love to God, charity to man, purity and humility. Here is what h e says about such things:

Quote:

-----These are the highest perfections that either men or angels are capable of--the very foundation of heaven laid in the soul; and he w ho hath attained them, needs not desire to pry into the hidden rolls of God's decrees, or search the volumes of heaven to know what is determined abo ut his everlasting condition; but he may find a copy of God's thoughts concerning him, written in his own breast. His love to God may give him assuran ce of God's favour to him; and those beginnings of happiness, which he feels in the conformity of the powers of his soul to the nature of God, and com pliance with his will, are a sure pledge that his felicity shall be perfected, and continued to all eternity; and it is not without reason that one said, "I had r ather see the real impressions of a God-like nature upon my own soul, than have a vision from heaven, or an angel sent to tell me that my name was e nrolled in the book of life."

How 'bout them apples?

Amen. I agree and this is when of the most unsettling things. The enemy is hi-jacking the name of revival to use it for his own devices. Oh how we need to be on guard.

You may want to do a search in the forums for more info. There have been some really good things brought out and even interviews with men like Andrew Strom on the dangers of what is going on. I think this has to be the boldest step the enemy has taken in attempting to call good evil and evil good that I have seen. People that are infatuated with the supernatural, angels and miracles are particularly vulnerable to these things.

Re: - posted by Zaphycat (), on: 2008/5/14 16:32

I searched a bit, but it's mostly others (Like Andrew Strom) telling me what to think, rather than describing what exactly is happening and letting me decide for myself. I'm a thinking and discerning person, and I'd just like some of the straight facts.

From what I gather, People are getting healed, strange things are happening like the whole laughing thing, and there are some vaguely new-age/occultic/spirit guide things happening. The pastor is getting a lot of money, may have gotten tattoos, is promoting some fishy things.

"Facts" that can't be substantiated are that people suffer demonic or spiritual attacks after experiencing or watching videos. These things can't be "Proven", they could be real or they could be a ploy to stop this.

I GUESS I have to look at their side and see what they have to say. I don't really want to watch their videos, but I want to be on guard if I have to in order to see for myself. I want my judgement to be true, and not based off someone else's.

I have read some articles and teachings from this man, posted in another thread. This man has outside of the Bible revelations and teachings and visions.

If you accept this man's teachings, you must accept the rest, such as Mormons and others.

there is no difference.

This has nothing to do with Christianity, there has been many threads if you do a search in the forums.

People need to stay away, but sadly because people have such an "itch" to see and experience the "new" thing and the "miracles" and "strange" things going on. They are sucked in.

And if not careful, being deceived.

This man seeing angels, they have "spasms" and attacks. Saying things not to be found in scripture.

Interesting i read Mohamed the islam prophet also had such manifestations when seeing his angel visions.

To quote Zac Poonen, why would i want to see angels? i want to see Jesus.

I feel a deep grief over this, and for people being deceived by this.

May God open their eyes

Hi Zaphycat,

Here's an article about Lakeland by J. Lee Grady, the editor of Charisma magazine:

Honest Questions About the Lakeland Revival

I support any holy outbreak of revival fervor. But let's be careful to guard ourselves from pride and error.

God is stirring deep spiritual passion in the hearts of the thousands of people who have traveled to Florida during the last month to experience the Lakeland Healing Revival. Since these meetings began in a 700-seat church on April 2, the crowd has moved four times to bigger venues, the fervor has intensified and the news has spread worldwide—thanks to God TV and online broadcasting.

Within a few weeks, the bandwagon effect was in full swing. It's safe to say that no outbreak of Pentecostalism in history has gained so much international exposure so quickly as these meetings have.

I'm a cheerleader for the charismatic movement, so I rejoiced when I heard the news about revivalist Todd Bentley's extended visit to Ignited Church. It was thrilling to hear the reports of miracles and to watch the crowd grow until a stadium was required to hold everyone.

"When we put bizarre behavior on the platform we imply that it is normative. Thus more strange fire is allowed to spread."

When I visited a service on April 15, I was blessed by Heather Clark's music and the audience's exuberant worship. And I laughed with everyone else as I watched Bentley shout his trademarked "Bam! Bam! Bam!" as he prayed for the sick and flailed his tattooed arms over the crowd. Hey, Jesus didn't pray for people according to the Pharisees' rule book, so I'm open to unconventional methods.

But I would be dishonest if I told you that I wholeheartedly embraced what I saw in Lakeland. Something disturbed me, but I kept my mouth shut for three weeks while I prayed, got counsel from respected ministry leaders and searched my heart to make sure I was not harboring a religious spirit. The last thing we need today is more mean-spirited heresy hunter's blasting other Christians.

I am not a heresy hunter, and I support what is happening in Lakeland because I know God uses imperfect people (like me and you) to reach others for Jesus. At the same time, I believe my questions are honest and my concerns are real.

My motive is not to criticize Bentley or the pastor who is sponsoring these meetings, Stephen Strader. In September 2002 Charisma featured a seven-page article about Bentley's amazing conversion from drug addiction. I believe Bentley is a sincere brother who wants people to encounter God's presence and power. No doubt this 32-year-old evangelist needs our prayers now more than ever, especially since he has become the focus of international media attention.

But as the noise from Lakeland grows louder and its influence spreads, I'm issuing some words of warning that apply to o all of us, not just the folks in Lakeland. I hope everyone understands that these cautions are offered in love:

1. Beware of strange fire. The name of Jesus is being lifted up in the Lakeland revival, and three people came to the altar for salvation the night I attended. Larger numbers have come to the front of the auditorium to find Christ every night since then.

Yet I fear another message is also being preached subtly in Lakeland—a message that cult-watchers would describe as a spiritual counterfeit. Bentley is one of several charismatic ministers who have emphasized angels in the last several years. He has taught about angels who bring financial breakthroughs or revelations, and he sometimes refers to an angel named Emma who supposedly played a role in initiating a prophetic movement in Kansas City in the 1980s. Bentley describes Emma as a woman in a flowing white dress who floats a few feet off the floor.

All of us who believe the Bible know that angels are real, and that they work on our behalf to protect us and minister to us. But the apostle Paul, who had encounters with angels himself, issued stern warnings to the Corinthians, the Galatians and the Colossians about angels who preach another gospel or that demand attention. In Colossae, believers were so enamored with angels they had seen in visions that they became “inflated without cause” by spiritual pride (Col. 2:18, NASB). Paul was adamant that preoccupation with angels can lead to serious deception.

We need to tread carefully here! We have no business teaching God’s people to commune with angels or to seek revelations from them. And if any revival movement—no matter how exciting or passionate—mixes the gospel of Jesus with this strange fire, the results could be devastating. We need to remember that Mormonism was born out of one man’s encounter with a dark angel who claimed to speak for God.

2. Beware of bizarre manifestations. When the Holy Spirit’s power comes on people they may feel weak or even fall. The Spirit’s power can also cause people to tremble, shake, laugh or cry. Such manifestations are biblical and we should leave room for them. But where do we draw the line between legitimate experience and fanatical excess?

The apostle Paul had to deal with outrageous charismatic manifestations in the Corinthian church. People were acting like raving lunatics—and turning the church in to a free-for-all of unbridled ecstatic behavior. Paul called for discipline and order, and he reminded early Christians that “the spirits of prophets are subject to prophets” (1 Cor. 14:32). In other words, Paul was saying that no one under the influence of the Holy Spirit should act out of control.

In many recent charismatic revivals, ministers have allowed people to behave like epileptics on stage—and they have attributed their attention-getting antics to the Holy Spirit. We may think it’s all in fun (you know, we’re just “acting crazy” for God) but we should be more concerned that such behavior feeds carnality and grieves the Spirit.

When exotic manifestations are encouraged, people can actually get a religious high from jerking, vibrating, screaming or acting intoxicated. (I have even been around people who writhed as if in pain, or made sexual noises—thinking this was a legitimate spiritual experience.) But emotional euphoria doesn’t guarantee a heart change. The person who is bucking like an untamed bronco in a church service would benefit more from sitting still and reading the Bible for an hour. When we put bizarre behavior on the platform we imply that it is normative. Thus more strange fire is allowed to spread.

3. Beware of hype and exaggeration. Our hearts are crying out today for a genuine move of God. We want the real deal. We’ve read about the Great Awakenings of the past and we long to see our nation overcome by a wave of repentance. The church is in a backslidden state, and our nation has rebelled against God. We are desperate!

In our longing for a holy visitation, however, we must be careful not to call the first faint breeze of the Spirit a full-fledged revival. If we do that, we are setting people up for disappointment when they realize it may not be what we blew it up to be.

Some of the language used during the Lakeland Revival has created an almost sideshow atmosphere. People are invited to “Come and get some.” Miracles are supposedly “popping like popcorn.” Organizers tout it as the greatest revival in history.

Such brash statements cheapen what the Holy Spirit is doing—and they do a disservice to our brothers and sisters who are experiencing New Testament-style revival in countries such as Iran, China and India. We have a long way to go before we experience their level of revival. Let’s stay humble and broken before the Lord.

I am rejoicing over all the reported healings at the Lakeland meetings. Miracles are awesome. Crowds are great. But miracles and crowds alone don't guarantee a revival. Multitudes followed Jesus during His ministry on earth, but many of the people who saw the dead raised or ate food that was supernaturally multiplied later crucified the Son of God.

It was the few disciples who followed Jesus after Calvary who ushered in a true revival—one that was bathed in the fear of God, confirmed by signs and wonders, tempered by persecution and evidenced by thousands of conversions, new churches and the transformation of society. We should expect nothing less.

thanks you, this is just two hours from my home

My heart desire to cry out to every brother and sister Awake , and quick lets get to our knees. This breaks my heart, that this would come and but few will pray against for our city for these people. May every one in Phnx Tucson Az, let us be wise and start even this night but fast pray with who ever we can to pray and pray and pray. Let us pray brothers and sister. The time is now, not when it has passed. Let us be strong and stand for truth, lets tell as many Churches as we know, oh that many would indeed pray. Oh God have mercy on Us. Have mercy on this state. Let us see! the battle at hand please don't let us delay but pray and gather as many as we can, but whatever we do let not it not be we didn't pray as life was at risk. Help us Lord. Please help us.

God keeps bring me to the book of Nehemiah. It is breath taking really. it made me make you weep. He starts with stating his role. where he lives. you look at it his is at ease, life is good. Yet when he hears the report of the distress of the people of God he falls into weeping. Note he ask. he requires the state of the Church. Many people in America Don't care how the rest of the Churches are doing.. really we are self centered and focused on self. When really if we ask we would be shocked and would weep Over the sad and wicked state of the House of God. Yes Gods people are in great distress. can we hear their cry?

when he is told the walls are broken and gates burned. This means that they are in a state of weakness. what does heard mean it is to understand, to consider and listen and discern the matters in America what is happening. It is one thing to hear and go on with life. But to understand, and really listen brings forth action. Because it hits the heart. when he sits down means he is still to listen to God, to tarry and to continue in a state of weeping. and to fast is to come and be broken and follow and quite one self. Why so one can hear Gods voice.

Now one thing I think was neat was that God placed this man there, it was his sovereign plan, what does that mean for me. God has a province in placing where he has for a good reason. why? So he can make me fit so I can carry out his call and so with the rest of His children. Amazing and wonderful. I think it must we take at hand where God has, where it is, that our hearts are broken for the brothers and sisters.

So although this man was at ease he didn't forget the weakened Church... or to as Gods people there distress was a burden to him. and so the state of Church should break us. It would be my eager plea to all, not to let life be busy and ministry and all these things to keep us away from praying and fasting for this nation. we are not to be shamed or prideful or to busy to take time to pray. With great understand, comes great sorrow. Great love, comes great prayer.

I do push again and we must as Gods people begane to enquire the state of the Church what is happening. Indeed we will fall into slavery or have we already? Has not Gods holy people been trampled and abused. Such false teaching is not from God and many will hurt by this, Weep I say let us weep.

the walls and broken down and gates burned. marks " poverty and slavery very dangerouse for the emenies that they might use us as a prey" Awake america Awake up let us have deep affliction and deep cocern may grief be in out hearts. fast and pray in secert

When they came against them, when in great oppstion they didn't stop "So we rebuilt the wall till all of it reached half its height, for the people worked with all their heart." may we not give but keep on in his work. "the repairs to Jerusalem's walls had gone ahead and that the gaps were being closed, they were very angry. 8 They all plotted together to come and fight against Jerusalem and stir up trouble against it. 9 But we prayed to our God and posted a guard day and night to meet this threat."

"Therefore I stationed some of the people behind the lowest points of the wall at the exposed places, posting them by families, with their swords, spears and bows"

"When our enemies heard that we were aware of their plot and that God had frustrated it, we all returned to the wall, each to his own work"

" From that day on, half of my men did the work, while the other half were equipped with spears, shields, bows and armor. The officers posted themselves behind all the people of Judah 17 who were building the wall. Those who carried materials did their work with one hand and held a weapon in the other, 18 and each of the builders wore his sword at his side as he worked. But the man who sounded the trumpet stayed with me.

19 Then I said to the nobles, the officials and the rest of the people, "The work is extensive and spread out, and we are widely separated from each other along the wall. 20 Wherever you hear the sound of the trumpet, join us there. Our God will fight for us!"

My dear beloved let us be wake to the oppstion, and has not the trumpet gone froth let us gather. and God will fight for us.

In Christ Holy this is were I rest.

I would like to put some thoughts out here for examination this guy Bentley for thought.

If he is and it appears to me that he is a false prophet, can God not take care of this guy one way or the other?

If Bentley is false, can God not save him?

We must warn others of false prophets, but do we give him a tremendous amount of attention to them?

Are the false prophet or the ones referred to in scripture as obvious in their falseness as Bentley is?

Did the Bible not say that the real false prophets, or the antichrist will be so smooth that he might could even fool the elect, if were possible? Does this passage fit this guy Bentley?

Excuse me, but those ear rings and piercings of the flesh doesn't appear to be as one masquerading himself an angel of light. It could be if he did repent of his tattoos and got rid of the ear rings.

If we expose all the false prophets will we have enough space for the mormons, catholics, etc?

Re:, on: 2008/5/15 8:39

The Bible says that MANY false prophets will come IN ACCORDANCE with the lawless one who has been at work from the beginning. Anyone who is false and uses the name of Jesus I believe fits this description. He's considered part of the church by many and judgment starts with us. The Bible says that they receive a 'spirit of delusion' or something to that effect because they seek the 'signs and wonders' rather than Christ himself.

So if this spirit is working in Bentley, as overt as he is in thumbing his nose at truth in scripture, how much more will people be deceived when the lawless one is revealed?

Re:, on: 2008/5/15 8:48

Yes sir, that's what my Bible says to and you don't have to answer the questions if you don't want to.

Re:, on: 2008/5/15 9:01

I was expounding on the 4th and 5th questions and putting out kind of rhetorical question at the end. I thought I was in agreement that Bentley does fit the description provided. If this isn't a proper response then I apologize.

Re:, on: 2008/5/15 9:07

No problem, I'm just simple minded and slow to comprehend, sometimes people have to draw me a picture. Thanks Brother.

Re:, on: 2008/5/15 9:16

No offense taken here, you didn't do anything I haven't done... sometimes my intent isn't clear at times as well. Onward Brother.

One thing that the enemy is doing through these debates on the Todd Bentley meetings is to stir up strife between believers and pit Christians against one another. It is the fans of Bentley and what is taking place at the meetings against those that believe that all this is of the devil.

God is not pleased with His children not using discernment and allowing themselves to be deceived, but He is also displeased with those that bring divisions into the Body of Christ and are being used as instruments of the "accuser of the brethren".

There are many Christians that are supporting Todd Bentley and the meetings that deeply love the Lord and want more of God in their lives, just as there are many that love God that believe that this is all a counterfeit.

The Word says that we should "speak the truth in love". Those that are spiritual should be seeking to restore their fallen brothers in a spirit of humility, lest they also fall.

When we divide up into these various camps that cause division in the Body of Christ, then we are just proving how carnal that we really are.

A spiritual Christian is one that will love the truth and will also seek for the unity of the Spirit in the Body of Christ. That is what our Lord prayed for, that we would all be one, even as He and the Father are one.

In His Love,
Mike

Amen, we should always avoid strife. The main strife we need to avoid being is strife is against Jesus and His Word. The last person we need to be in strife with is Jesus. When we are in agreement with Him and His Word, look out. Until people get rid of the strife with Jesus and His Word, they will be in strife with His children, His Word tells us that. He said live with it, just speak truth.

Phoenix..

Its coming to Korea too..

Two of our pastors are going there to see it.

I've translated the Charisma magazine article into Korean and posted into our church staff members site.

The people are pretty hyped about it here.

A lot of articles about the dead being raised and the evangelism taking place at wall-mart and hundreds getting saved.

Without even the slightest doubt, many here are taking it to be a move of God to make the deadening church come to life again.

We need your prayers.

Something like the editor of the charisma magazine said...

We are so thirsty for a revival here that the slightest breeze(or maybe no breeze at all) is being mistaken for a New Testament revival.

It seems like many koreans will be showing up at Florida soon "to come and get some."

Re: - posted by Manana, on: 2008/5/29 2:48

I am replying as one who has been to Lakeland and experienced the "outpouring" of God there.

Biblically the way to discern if something is from God is to look at the fruit. People are getting healed, delivered and saved. They are giving their lives to Jesus not the devil!

A false prophet is someone who leads people away from Jesus, which is not happening here.

Maybe before people judge they should read their Bible and look at the correct way to judge! Which I again say is look at the fruit. The devil has not been known to lead people to him with mass healings!

John and Carol Arnott from Toronto have blessed this. So have a look before you judge.

Re: - posted by DirkW (), on: 2008/5/29 4:31

- healing, deliverance is no fruit

- galatians 5 > fruit

- the bible says that there will arise many false prophets preaching another Jesus

- and the false prophets will do great miracles, they will even send fire from the sky says the bible

- john and carol arnott are just people, no "okay, they've blessed it so it's a real revival", we should read the bible for that

- there are a lot of posts where there is explained why this is no real revival and what's wrong with this movement. I suggest you take a look at the forum to read what's said about all this.

- God bless! And ask Him to reveal to you what's real, what's counterfeit etc.

Re:, on: 2008/5/29 8:16

"John and Carol Arnott from Toronto have blessed this. So have a look before you judge."

This statement implies that since two human beings whom I do not know have sanctioned, no 'blessed', the Lakeland event that I should not judge. Forgive me here for the harsh tone but this name throwing is ridiculous. Who are these people and why should I care? The Pope blesses too and he prays to dead people...so what? Where do people get the authority to bless anything?

And there are just as many people of God who are against this. If I told you Doug Perry said: 'don't go' and that he has not 'blessed' this what would that be to you? Anything? THEN DON'T THROW NAMES AND EXPECT THEM TO STICK.

What gives me the right to judge this without running to Lakeland??? Why the Bible does. Why are there so many warnings in the Bible about these things? So we can LACK JUDGEMENT??? You go and are convinced with your own eyes. ..that's fine... I will not go and still judge... period. I've been following these characters involved in this movement for some time now and let me tell you Bob Jones is a dangerous fraud, EMMA IS NOT IN THE BIBLE, and no one in the Bible were ever transported up to heaven, gutted by heavenly beings, then had 'truth' sown into them as Bentley has claimed. He's his own bible with absurd stories that are not Scriptural. So I could care less what the Arnott's think, I have what I need. Wake up!! Do you think a counterfeit is obvious to God's people? Counterfeit's are supposed to look like the real thing.

2 Thessalonians 2:9 (Whole Chapter)

The coming of the lawless one will be in accordance with the work of Satan displayed in all kinds of COUNTERFEIT miracles, signs and wonders.

Matthew 24:26 (Whole Chapter)

"So if anyone tells you, 'There he is, out in the desert,' do not go out; or, 'Here he is, in the inner rooms,' do not believe it.

Jesus himself said don't go running after this stuff. And there's plenty more in the Bible where that came from. This will be my judgement, not who blessed what or who saw what.

dear manana, first biblically we must look at the main message of the meetings. look first at the doctrine. when mr. bentley is trying to lead believers into the "third heaven", have visitations with angels, etc, then we need to see that his message does not lead believers toward Christ and the cross, but to extra-biblical things... things colossians 2 warns us about my fear manana, is that if all you ever do is look at the fruit, you can easily get swept away by deception because you are always looking at the end result instead of the means the person used to get there..and don't forget, the pharaoh's magicians could turn their rod into snakes and make some of the same signs that God did with aaron and moses, but we know they were demonic signs.

just first look at doctrine, then if doctrine is right, look at fruit... just some advice friend.

I'm no expert regarding what has happened at this Lakeland Revival, I have never been and witnessed it myself however if what has been written about it is true then I certainly never shall attend their meetings and I pray it that the hype is short-lived.

In response to Manana's post I really must advise extreme caution because I do believe that the Bible warns us of exactly these kinds of happenings just take for example Matthew 7:21-23

"Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven.

22 Many will say to Me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?'"

23 And then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!'"

There is quote I really love in the 'Charisma' article that I think is very fitting for many people today:

"The person who is bucking like an untamed bronco in a church service would benefit more from sitting still and reading the Bible for an hour."

Hosea 4:6

My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge
