I am currently reading "Pagan Christianity" by Frank Viola, I am almost done with the book, but I was wondering if any of the SermonIndex family has read "Fossilized Customs" by Lew White, and if so, what did you think about?

I have read it. He has some good information but is often a little odd in his presentation. I believe he relies quite a bit on Hyslop's book, "The Two Babylons".

Some people immediately dismiss what is being presented because it steps on the toes of some of their cherished practices and traditions, but it is worth reading.
