Saints,

Transplant Radio is dedicated to having some of Christianities hardest laborers for the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Join us every Tuesday night at 11pm Eastern as we learn behind the scenes info of several ministries across the country. I am privileged to be interviewed tonight on this radio show.

Greg Gordon the founder of SermonIndex.net comes on to talk about the importance of Prayer, Revival and Evangelism. Be sure to check out the amazing archive of solid, biblical sermons on SermonIndex.net

That's strange.

Here is the link for where I am at:

Is it just not loading? You could try a different browser. The first fifteen minutes he shared his testimony which was really good. Now he's talking about SI and how he runs the website.

I heard it and was very glad to hear each of the points that Greg raised, including one that is the subject of the thread I recently started, and coming from the background of holiness/pentecostal through the years of the degeneration of what has in the last several years called the 'charismatic' movement, I could not agree more... the fruits of the Spirit, the seeking of the giver instead of the gifts, the seeking to glorify Jesus Christ, and the power to do so, rather than taking away from Christ by overemphasis on "seeking the Holy Spirit... with certain "evidences"... how very refreshing to hear what was so candidly emphasized tonight. 100% agreement from here.

No problems in hearing the broadcast after our conference prayer call. Breaking up the fallow ground. If these are recorded it would be an excellent reference for Merle to pass to his brother in Penn/MD. Would help clear up some confusion on revival.

There were quite a few blog-listeners (had to register and log on) that began to share written communications as you spoke Greg, Like live web casts. Maybe not as accustomed to that.

Did Greg actually not use the URL on this thread? We love you Brother. YIKES! Fixed as I typed. oh we just went to a new page.

It was a blessing to be involved with this. It really has given me the idea to pray about is running a weekly show on sermonindex that would interview men on revival and other topics.

I will post the audio of this show tomorrow once I have it.
