Hi and welcome 'Disciple'!

I have a funny little story that goes along with your intro. Last night my 8 yr. old son asked me "Am I grown christian yet?" I told him he was still growing and I hope he will always be growing. I asked, 'By the way, what do you think you were before?' and he said "A half christian". :-) Then he said, "like the other day when I ran my hotwheels car through McKenna's (sister) hair to see if it would get stuck, I was a half christian then." :-P Anyway, I hope you are so blessed by everything at SI. Great 'food' and fellowship! :-)

In Him, Chanin

Finally brother... a reply to your introduction!

I'm grateful to the Lord that I've found this site and was able to share it with you. There's so much spiritual food out here...and so many loving brothers and sisters in our Lord Jesus. Being here always gives me an encouragement to press on towards Christ and to leave behind all that could possibly hinder me from fellowshiping with Christ...

Surrender your all to Him every single day! Seek His face with all of your heart...that's where your needs will be met, your questions will be answered, your problems will be solved, your prayers will be heard, the fire will be lit, the words will be given, the Spirit will be poured out!

And we need His Spirit. We don't need a "how-to-speak-congress" or the newest gadgets to reach the lost. We need the Spirit of God... "For the One whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for God gives the Spirit without limit" (John 3:34). Let us call upon His name...

“Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another; Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer” (Rom 12:10-12)

Let us be fervent in spirit, serving the Lord! Let us continue in prayer! God will reveal His will to (all of) us. Oh Lord, give us ears to hear and words to speak! Glorify Your Son alone through all of Your servants in these last days... Make us people who will spend most time in the closet, quietly listening to the Voice of the Most High. But also make us people who will, afterwards, shout in this desert with boldness: “Prepare the way of the Lord”...

Your praying brother and friend,

Paul (DezCall)
