

Devotional Thoughts :: A stone in the grave is not a pebble in heaven.

A stone in the grave is not a pebble in heaven. - posted by buttermilk80 (), on: 2010/11/7 22:18

My breath was shallow. The heart within my chest so heavy I feared it might break loose it's moorings. No joy. No hope but death.

I prayed His consideration that I might not remain. How much better the grave than this horrible plight.

I slept an hour and woke in the same place. Through with me? No. Regardless how useless a man I am, He is not useless.

His Spirit is not death. Life is His command. And I am His friend if I do whatsoever He commands. Well and good. Life in obscurity is still serving Him. And, He asks, "What do you know of My ways"?