Brothers and Sisters,

I know many of you are maybe not aware of this but we do have a forums community rule to ask all users of these discussion forums not to post to outside media (audio or video) on the forums here. This rule is in place for many reasons, namely to prevent abuse and mis-use of the forums and to not allow SermonIndex.net to be a conduit to many false or unprofitable teachings.

We believe there are enough resources on the site here for discussion and promotion and we encourage you in that vein saints! Thank you for your participation on the site and your being involved in this vibrant online community. May God continue to bless us all as we are on this journey with Christ.

We also encourage everyone to read through the community rules. We will be re-revising these rules to make them more simple and shorter but for now we still encourage the reading of them:

No problem brother. Many people post "great" materials and I hate to have to enforce it on them also! But I believe there is wisdom behind keeping this as a standard on the site!

Bless you my friend.

Just for clarification, does this include articles?

Thanks.

Sister,

no that is outside audio and video. But we do have rules against spam so if people are trying to "only" self-promote their ministry or themselves in writing and are not part of the community we want to protect the site from such abuse. It could be great in some ways but sadly if everyone did it there would just be a terrible amount of content being added but no meaningful communication.
