Hindu extremists have attacked Koya tribal Christians in villages in a remote area of Orissa state at least 15 times since Dec. 8, 2010, Christian leaders said.

In the latest incident in Murliguda, about 80 kilometers (50 miles) from Malkangiri town, about 60 assailants from the Hindu extremist Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh on Feb. 23 damaged the eardrums of Bhadan Hontal and beat another Christian, Markari Soma, until he fell unconscious, according to a report by the Malkangiri District Christian Manch (MDCM, with Manch meaning "Forum"). ...

Father, in the name of your son Jesus Christ, I ask that you radically convert the leaders of this radical Hindu group that keeps plaguing the Christians in this area! Nothing is too big for you, Lord! For your glory alone convert these men to be men of the Most High God~!!

To God be the glory!!
