Campbell Soup cuts ties, others elusive - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2011/4/5 10:18

Outrage continues over major food companies and their relationship with a firm that uses aborted fetal cells to test food for flavor enhancers.

Campbell Soup, Nestl , Solae, Pepsico and Kraft have been listed as partners with the bio-tech firm Senomyx. Debi Vinnedge, executive director of Children of God for Life, tells OneNewsNow one company was quick to respond.

"Campbell Soup actually met earlier and made the decision to sever all relations with Senomyx," she reports. The firm has also been removed from the Senomyx website. ..
