

Miracles that follow the plow :: Continued prayers please*Continued prayers please - posted by MaryJane, on: 2011/9/1 14:02

Wanted to ask all those who feel led to please pray, there are many families here, as well as in Vermont that are really struggling right now. There are families with no power, and they are being told they will not get their power back until Sept . 7. More rains are expected coming this weekend and for many this will just make things that much worse. I have heard of so many who also have no running water because their houses are on wells and with out power there is no water.

Please pray if you feel led to for these areas. God is in control and in my heart I know HE does not leave us in our hour of need.

God Bless
maryjane

Thank you MJ. I am on the West Coast and don't always get the full info. I will be honored to pray for those who are hurting and are in need.
