The Wait Is Over!!, on: 2012/4/12 13:30

After being laid off almost a year ago because of the economy devastating the company I worked for for 12 years... and working almost 11 months as a temp for almost half the income with no benefits.....

This morning I received a very generous offer from a local company, a salary offer more than where I was a year ago... with full benefits etc!!

God is good, ain't He!

This is true... this is a large company with 8 or 9 plants around the US. Family owned, and it's a Christian family. During this recession their sales and manufacturing have grown and they have acquired 3 other companies!

The company started in 1929... the year the Depression started.

Everything about them is the opposite of what you would think concerning the economy.

I love Jesus' economy!

This great news and a great testimony for the Lord's faithfulness. I am pleased for you

It is funny how we can all wonder what is happening in the midst of situations when nothing seems to be working out right....but then God steps in gives us a bigger blessing than we would have dreamed of asking for.

Brother I can't tell you how wonderful this is!

I was unemployed for 5 months last year and it broke me in every way possible, but the Lord was faithful and at the very last minute I got a phone call... I know the Red Sea well, I felt like Moses but the Lord split the sea for me and it's great to see that He has done the same for you!

PRAISE THE LORD!!! I'm so happy for you, you made my day!

That is great, Krispy.

Tell us what the Lord taught you through this trial. How did He use it in your life to help you apprehend more of Him? I'm sure your testimony will benefit all of us.

Pilgrim, when I have more time I will share what the Lord has taught me and how He has provided above and beyond our needs!

Thank you, Krispy. Many watching (including myself) may go through like trials.

I know with each trial we have the opportunity to apprehend more of Christ so that the Body may benefit.

2Co 1:4 Who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God.

Take your time. Looking forward to your portion of Christ.

Glad to hear it krispy! Plus, now you can really feel for and encourage other brethren who come across your path that are going through the same struggle. That will be a blessing for you to be able to encourage and comfort them.

God bless -Jim

I'm glad the Lord has provided a job. I am more thankful that He has given you this season of trial and chastisement because of His love for you. I hope your prayer today is for a deeper work in which you are utterly and continually cast on Him.

Someone asked me if I could share some things I've learned during my time being "under-employed" over the last year.

Consider that in July 2010 I had a heart attack and less than a year later I got laid off and lost our health insurance as a result... I learned to trust in the Lord more than ever.

I learned that the Lord does supply all of our needs... and sometimes even blesses us beyond what we can imagine. All of our bills were paid on time thru this period, and at times even had a little left over.

In January I went to Hawaii for a week with one of my sons... he won it thru a writing contest, so the entire trip was free except for the Jeep we rented. God is AMAZING.

I learned that no matter what happens in our lives... it happens because God has ordained it. God knew all about my getting laid off before it happened. He did not respond to the situation, He directed the situation to test me, try me and teach me.

God put me in different situations that I would not have otherwise been in so that I could shine the light of His love and grace. The same is true for my new job. I'm excited about the opportunity to witness of His grace to those folks there that I don't even know yet.

I learned that my wife is even more of a Proverbs 31 wife than I could have imagined. The business she started when I got laid off has soared!

I suppose if I were to write down everything I have learned and experienced of God... it would be a book.
