

Devotional Thoughts :: For Dear Brother Denny - who has gone home...

For Dear Brother Denny - who has gone home... - posted by HeartSong, on: 2012/7/4 16:20

Home By The Eshes

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hEfHSXZJX_E

Re: For Dear Brother Denny - who has gone home... - posted by mama27, on: 2012/7/4 16:41

Thank you, HeartSong.....tears.....

Re: - posted by HeartSong, on: 2012/7/4 16:42

tears here too. I miss him already.

Re: - posted by HeartSong, on: 2012/7/4 16:47

The thing I remember most was how sweet he was to the children, and the fact that he never flinched.

Re: , on: 2012/7/4 17:19

Truly a Godly man. I was priveleged to drive him around for a few days in Greenock and minister beside him. He was the one speaker that was at every prayer meeting before the services, even on the night he was speaking, there he was, on his knees with the rest of us, spoke volumes to me.....bro Frank

Re: For Dear Brother Denny - who has gone home..., on: 2012/7/4 22:53

The funeral will be broadcast live, for more info see: <http://charitychristianfellowship.org/ccf/denny-kenaston-funeral-viewing>

Also, one of my favorite series that Denny ever preached, next to the Godly Home, is called "The Power of the Holy Spirit" at the 2002 Leadership Conference. No matter what your views of the doctrine, Charity, Anabaptist and brother Denny this is an excellent series. Denny's preaching and teaching have had a great influence on my hunger and thirst for righteousness (i.e., Christ alone).

http://www.ephramministries.org/msg_detail.a5w?vlast_index=SET117

Love in Christ's name,

Kenneth and Bia Martin

Re: For Dear Brother Denny - who has gone home... - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2012/7/5 11:10

Thanks for posting this song...

I have heard it many times and once again in listening to it, it tears me up - it is so sacred.

"Being dead yet speaketh" - more profoundly now than when alive? Just wondering...