I don't want this to be too wordy- just short and simple.

I am still amazed how the Lord brings people together (ex. here on SI) that are tired of what the churches are serving up as christianity (really just a form of religion) and are wanting JESUS. Just Jesus and what He wants for us.

Even now that I know the truth, it is a constant battle to keep my focus on Him alone because of all the many distractions (teachings, debates, different beliefs, denominations, different callings for different people, comparing, striving).

So many times, I just call out: "Just give me Jesus".

It is so cool to see how the Lord keeps bringing His true followers together so they can worship Him in spirit and truth.
