

Devotional Thoughts :: another

another - posted by MaryJane, on: 2013/1/11 15:39

Not a new thought, but very fresh this morning...In considering how I could love on Jesus today, His still small voice reminded me: Love on My sheep and you're loving on Me. What you pour out on them and spend on them, you're pouring out and spending on Me. I AM in them. There is a wealth of opportunity all around. Just thought I'd pass it on.

This was shared to encourage others and I thought to share it here with you for that same purpose. Loving JESUS means loving others, it means caring for another more than I care about myself. Today I want to really be about others. I want to love JESUS by demonstrating HIS love to another....seem like a really good way to spend the time I have been given today.

God bless you
