I believe most of the sermon compilations are on Sermon Index and other websites, but I see that the "old" website is down.

I thank God for the brother who hosted this website for so many years.

It would be very good for a brother who is able to purchase this domain or have it backlisted so they can get it if it goes free, because sadly pornography or other business sites will get it. It could simply be pointed to SermonIndex or to a special page I could setup on SI linking to some of the compilations.

It is definitely worth having that link still work in the web, the Revival Hymn came from their from someone who submitted it through them and has had great impact world-wide on saints for the burden of genuine revival.
