

News and Current Events :: N.M. court: Christian conscience discriminates against gays*N.M. court: Christian conscience discriminates against gays - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2013/8/23 12:51

The New Mexico Supreme Court ruled today that a Christian photographer discriminated against a homosexual couple when she refused to take photos of their “commitment” ceremony.

Elaine Huguenin, who operates Elane Photography with her husband, Jonathan, cited her belief in the biblical definition of marriage when she declined to work with Vanessa Willock and her lesbian partner. Although Willock hired another photographer, she filed a complaint against Huguenin with the New Mexico Human Rights Commission. In 2008, the commission ruled Huguenin discriminated against Willock on the basis of her sexual orientation and ordered the photographer to pay $6,637.94 in attorneys’ fees, even though New Mexico does not recognize same-sex marriage or civil unions. ...

read more: http://www.worldmag.com/2013/08/n_m_court_christian_conscience_discriminates_against_gays

Re: N.M. court: Christian conscience discriminates against gays - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2013/8/24 9:45

And.. the Christians' conscience does not count?

Sounds to me like discrimination at its worse...