Oh Lord! Who Am I

(XiaoMinâ€™s Canaan Hymn no. 607, arranged by AnLun Huang, presented by XinRu Liu)

Oh Lord!

Who am I that You have exalted me, to enable me to stand before You and sing to You a song. Oh Lord!
Who am I that You have concerned about me, that I was born in China in order to receive the great harvest.
I was swept along by great waves, and I was walking through persecution.
You loved me, You protected me and You led me on.
Unlike the kite without the string, unlike the withered flowers,
I became a seed of life that lives in You.
I desperately cry for You, and You will accomplish for me.
There tomorrow the sound of worship will fill all the corners.
