Hi there,

I am looking for a good biography or autobiography of William Booth, one that does not just focus on the social reform that took place but the power of the Holy Spirit behind it.

Appreciate any input.
God bless

I have listened to a sketch of his life by Keith Daniel and was blown away but the recording was not of a good quality, so I couldn't hear everything and where he got his material.

David Ravenhill recently published the book of William Booth's visions which gives great insight into his spiritual burdens that led the movement:
