brothers and sisters,

I have questions, though I already consulted elderly Christians about it:

what do you do on company events like Christmas parties, outing(swimming) etc.?

do you not attend at all or how?

any thoughts?

I ask your prayers also..

You pray.

I think that's the best response.

Here are some reasons:

1. You could be wrong. They might be doing something very legal, you might be only seeing part of the situation.
2. They are sowing destruction upon themselves and/or the company. Since God cares about you more than the birds of the sky, pray. He will lead and guide you, even if the company reaps what they are sowing.
3. God could change their hearts.

Should you go? Should you not go?

Paul gives great advice on gray matters. Follow your own convictions, let every man be convinced in his own heart.

Blessings and may the Lord guide you.
