I watched a video of this Christian man who sold his nice house and moved to country side to live a simple life. He bought his house when he was an unbeliever and he said that the materialistic things he had were to be regarded as rubbish.

It put conviction in my heart to watch that video because I dreamed of a very nice house like you see in magazine but I realized that I ought to live a simple life as a Christian and forsake fancy vain extravagant things.

And indeed, Life does not consist in an abundance of our possessions...

Evangeline,

I say Amen to that. The love of money and of this world's "fancy" stuff can be a great hindrance and stumbling block to a lively vibrant faith.

May we all beware that our "stuff" doesn't own us instead of us just using it temporarily.

God bless,
