

Miracles that follow the plow :: unsaved brother asking for some advice, please pray unsaved brother asking for some advice, please pray - posted by rocklife (), on: 2005/11/4 13:34

my unsaved brother's marriage is falling apart, he is a newlywed and 26, he is asking for our advice and talk, please pray for me and family as we reach out to him, he is not a very open person, but in brokenness he is asking for help, please pray for us as we talk and reach out, and please pray for him and his wife (she's catholic but I don't believe she knows the Lord) thank you for your prayer support

Re: unsaved brother asking for some advice, please pray - posted by deltadom (), on: 2005/11/4 18:11

I pray that Jesus would help them

Re: unsaved brother asking for some advice, please pray - posted by Ropafadzo, on: 2005/11/5 4:32

Quote:

------(she is catholic but I don't believe she knows the Lord)

My attention has been brought you friend, I am solely concerned of your brother. What hinders most of us in the church from knowing God is because we do not aspire to a personal friendship with Him. We are churchgoers rather, we are not in the church. I pray that your brother is healed in his marriage by the mercy of God. It is also an opportunity friend that you invite him to God at this time and win a soul for your Lord. I am with your family in my prayers. The Lord be with you always.

Re:, on: 2005/11/7 6:06

Quote:

-----What hinders most of us in the church from knowing God is because we do not aspire to a personal friendship with Him.

Hi rocklife,

I will support you in prayer, as you reach out to your brother and his family. I think Ropafadzo points you in the right direction.

It is also worth letting him read what Paul said on Mars Hill in Acts 17 (or telling him about it) and promoting to him that Jesus IS alive to meet with him on HIS terms.

Re: - posted by rocklife (), on: 2005/11/13 19:29

thank you so much for the encouragements

he is coming over again today for christian talks, please continue to pray for us all to reach out in love and truth and his repentance is in God's hands, we've been praying many years, and wait on God, also he is coming over in a couple hours, so extra prayers are appreciated for tonight too, thank you so much, God's family is good

Re: unsaved brother asking for some advice, please pray - posted by 0withoutHim (), on: 2005/11/13 19:49

I agree with you according to Matthew 18:19. The Lord said that his word would not return void and that as you believe and pray for the salvation of your family, it WILL be done !