I was just curious as to how Leonard Ravenhill got his income. Did he get it through the church? or by working a side job? or did he have people support him and his family? Thanks

I am pretty sure that he just lived by faith. He immigrated to America in his midlife, I know he didn't have a big newsletter or ministry homebase but rather trusted the Lord for His provision.

He gave much money to missions also. I know the proceeds of many of his written materials went directly to missions and a lot of the honorariums given to him for preaching in different churches went to support Paul Ravenhill being a missionary in South America.

I know he drew from Social Security...and the occasional honorarium he received from minister counselling. God supplied all his needs.
