

General Topics :: Commentaries on Hebrews or RomansCommentaries on Hebrews or Romans - posted by Provost, on: 2007/2/6 16:02

I have Calvins on both and I am reading John Stotts on Romans. I would like people who really loved Christ and may have slightly different views. I have fun comparing what different lovers of Christ think regarding a verse or two. I guess I am just down to read a good commentary. Please let me know
God Bless
Thom

Re: Commentaries on Hebrews or Romans - posted by PCB, on: 2007/2/6 17:12

Andrew Murray's 'the Holiest of All' is an excellent commentary on Hebrews. It is very readable despite being detailed/long and quite in-depth.

Peter

Re: Commentaries on Hebrews or Romans - posted by lovegrace, on: 2007/2/6 21:11

For my bible college class on the 'Book of Romans' we are reading Encountering the Book of Romans by Douglas Moo.

He doesn't seem to take a 'calvinsit' or 'Arminian' point of view. But rather a Reformed or 'new' perspective on Romans.

Re: Commentaries on Hebrews or Romans - posted by preacherafla (), on: 2007/2/7 1:25

William Newell wrote verse by verse commentaries on both Romans and Hebrews (as well as on Revelations. I have to agree with PCB, Andrew Murray's commentary on Hebrews is great!

God's Guidance to you,
In His service,
Preacheraflame