Another Revival Hymn Video Available - posted by orchardkeepe (), on: 2007/3/15 19:20

Hello everyone! I stumbled across Sermon Index while I was researching the video "Revival Hymn". A DVD was passed on to me through a neighbor who received copies from Erwin Lutzer. When i "googled" Revival Hymn, I found Sermon Index. But when I began to view the video here, it was not the same video. The audio was the same, but the video was entirely different! I have since found out that the DVD I received was actually a revision of Revival Hymn called "Revival Fire". This video is actually the transcript from the audio. Regardless of the title or video, I was touched to the point of tears as I viewed the video. As a result, the Lord led me to create a web site at <http://www.revivalhymn.com> so this message can get wider distribution on the internet and copies of the DVD can be made available free of charge. I have placed all of the links created by joshua777 on the site as well as links to Sermon Index. If anyone has other suggestions, feel free to post them.

Brother,

This is excellent. I have downloaded the video and watched it and its a very clean well done production. I am going to add copies of these to sermonindex.net also. Could you please also send me a dvd copy to this address here.

"May the lamb that was slain receive the reward of his sufferings"

Brother, I'm finding some difficulties browsing the site with FF. After few seconds it redirects me to <http://www.revivalhymn.com/30>; Are you aware with this? I just tried with IE, it goes without problems.

And this is good work, thank you!

i'm having a similar problem. but also after i can get the page, it keeps reloading every 30 seconds or so (the first 30 seconds are excellent though ;-)). Just thought i'd let you know about the problem.

May the LORD bless you.

And now for a technical update:

The Revival Hymn video on the Revival Hymn web site is a Flash Video. Great for Internet Explorer users because it loads very fast, but not for all Firefox users.

The Firefox browser is currently considered an open source public technology preview and not officially supported for the Shockwave Player. The Shockwave Director engineering team is working with mozilla.org to ensure that Shockwave will be supported in future releases of Firefox.

Currently, Apple Macintosh users cannot install Shockwave for Firefox. Windows users may be able to install Shockwave Player but it may not perform as expected.

The Shockwave Director engineering team is aware of this and is actively working to resolve it.

But.....

You need to make sure that if you are using Firefox you have the add-on for Flash Player for Mozilla. You can find the add-ons at <http://plugindoc.mozdev.org/windows.html#Flash>.

Even then, depending on the version of Firefox you have and the Flash Player version you have, there are issues with flash videos in Firefox and videos may not play correctly.

So....

I am currently working on a back door solution for Firefox users (I happen to be one!) that may resolve this issue for Firefox users.

Another technical update:

The Firefox issue should be resolved now. I have tweaked the code and tested in Firefox 2. Everything works fine including the downloads. If you aren't using the Free Download Manager 1.0 plugin for Firefox, you might want to give it a try. Hope everything is working for you guys. If not, you know where to find me. Feel free to give any input and thanks for the heads up on the firefox issue.
