Dear brothers and sisters,

Last evening, my wife and I watched the 4th part in the DVD documentary called The Cross: Jesus in China. Although we've had the DVD set for some time now, I had put off watching this last part until now.

It was so beautiful that I wanted to recommend it all to you.

It tells the story of Xiao Min, a farm girl in China who has composed nearly a thousand hymns. From what I gathered she had no musical background or training. And according to the documentary, these hymns have spread very rapidly all over China, being sung by the believers there.

I so hope it may bless your hearts as it did mine or even more so.

Brother Greg, I wonder if it would be possible to have some of the recordings of these hymns put on the website?

What a beautiful story.

Christopher

Here is a link to another thread containing more information about the DVD set.

Have often wondered if these hymns were available in English.

Obviously the original hymns would be in Chinese, which would be of no good if you don't understand Chinese, which I don't.

Still, will watch this space.

God bless.

This DVD documentary is outstanding, I've watched all 4 parts with my daughter and she was encouraged too.

You can buy the DVD or download the video here: <http://www.chinasoul.org/e/cs-e.htm>

I've searched and searched for the Canaan Hymns conducted by Anlun Huang, to no avail. These hymns are beautiful. Has anyone found a site that has these on it??

Thanks
