Timeline of the Progress Toward a North American Union

Canadian, U.S., and Mexican elites, including CEOs and politicians, have a plan to create common North American policies and further integrate our economies. This plan goes by various names and euphemisms, such as "deep integration", "NAFTA-plus", "harmonization", the "Big Idea", the "Grand Bargain", and the "North American Security and Prosperity Initiative". Regardless of which name you prefer, the end goal of all of these plans is to create a new political and economic entity that would supercede the existing countries. Advocates refer to it as a "North American Community", but it is also known as the North American Union (NAU). Theoretically, it would be similar to and competitive with the European Union (EU). The individual currencies of each country would be replaced by a common currency called the "Amero" and everything from environmental regulations to security would be brought in line with a common standard.

Vive le Canada.ca offers the following timeline as a resource to educate the general public about the progress of the three countries toward a new North American Union (NAU).

Vive le Canada.ca opposes the creation of the North American Union (NAU) because we believe it will mean the loss of Canadian sovereignty and democracy and hand over more power to giant, unelected corporations. We also believe that unlike the EU, the countries joining the NAU are not roughly equal in size and power and that this means the U.S. will most certainly be setting policy for all three countries. Considering the unpopularity of the Bush administration and its policies in the U.S., Canada, and around the world we believe that erasing the borders between our countries and adopting U.S. policies at this time is a bad idea and will create economic, political and military insecurity in this country. We hope that raising awareness about the plan to create a North American Union (NAU) will create opposition and encourage debate in all three countries, but especially in Canada.

Note: This timeline is a work in progress and will be updated as events progress. If you notice a correction that needs to be made or an event that should be included, please email susan.thompson@vivelecanada.ca. Please allow time for updates to be made as they will be made less frequently than updates to the main page of the site.

Some are for it...

United North America

United North America is a non-profit organization dedicated to the democratic unification of Canada and the United States of America into one nation, under the framework of the United States Constitution.

For over two hundred years, an arbitrary border has needlessly divided North America; the most famous stretch known simply by a random line on the globe, the 49th parallel.

Is this demarcation, literally drawn on a map, an unalterable borderline destined for perpetuity to be the divider between our common people? Just why do the United States stop at an arbitrary line? Is what differentiates our two countries greater than what we share in common? As the babels of Europe unite, will North America stagnate and fall behind, squabbling over trivial differences? Are Canadians and US Americans really so different? If English Canada and Quebec can successfully and peacefully share one country, then cannot Canada and the United States do the same? Would Canada stand to gain or lose in being part of a larger group of united States? Would the United States gain or lose from a United North America without borders?

Here at United North America, we attempt to answer such questions, work to further stronger integration between the United States and Canada, and promote the democratic and peaceful accession to statehood of all of Canada's provinces

. On the following pages, you will see facts, ideas and commentaries on what such a peaceful Union would bring about.

Some are against it..

President Bush is pursuing a globalist agenda to create a North American Union, effectively erasing our borders with both Mexico and Canada. This was the hidden agenda behind the Bush administration's true open borders policy.

Secretly, the Bush administration is pursuing a policy to expand NAFTA politically, setting the stage for a North American Union designed to encompass the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. What the Bush administration truly wants is the free, unimpeded movement of people across open borders with Mexico and Canada.

President Bush intends to abrogate U.S. sovereignty to the North American Union, a new economic and political entity which the President is quietly forming, much as the European Union has formed.

The blueprint President Bush is following was laid out in a 2005 report entitled "Building a North American Community" published by the left-of-center Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). The CFR report connects the dots between the Bush administration's actual policy on illegal immigration and the drive to create the North American Union:

At their meeting in Waco, Texas, at the end of March 2005, U.S. President George W. Bush, Mexican President Vicente Fox, and Canadian Prime Minister Paul Martin committed their governments to a path of cooperation and joint action. We welcome this important development and offer this report to add urgency and specific recommendations to strengthen their efforts.

What is the plan? Simple, erase the borders. The plan is contained in a "Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America" little noticed when President Bush and President Fox created it in March 2005:

In March 2005, the leaders of Canada, Mexico, and the United States adopted a Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America (SPP), establishing ministerial-level working groups to address key security and economic issues facing North America and setting a short deadline for reporting progress back to their governments. President Bush described the significance of the SPP as putting forward a common commitment "to markets and democracy, freedom and trade, and mutual prosperity and security." The policy framework articulated by the three leaders is a significant commitment that will benefit from broad discussion and advice. The Task Force is pleased to provide specific advice on how the partnership can be pursued and realized.

To that end, the Task Force proposes the creation by 2010 of a North American community to enhance security, prosperity, and opportunity. We propose a community based on the principle affirmed in the March 2005 Joint Statement of the three leaders that "our security and prosperity are mutually dependent and complementary." Its boundaries will be defined by a common external tariff and an outer security perimeter within which the movement of people, products, and capital will be legal, orderly and safe. Its goal will be to guarantee a free, secure, just, and prosperous North America.

The perspective of the CFR report allows us to see President Bush's speech to the nation as nothing more than public relations posturing and window dressing. No wonder President Vicente Fox called President Bush in a panic after the speech. How could the President go back on his word to Mexico by actually securing our border? Not to worry, President Bush reassured President Fox. The National Guard on the border were only temporary, meant to last only as long until the public forgets about the issue, as has always been the case in the past.

The North American Union plan, which Vicente Fox has every reason to presume President Bush is still following, calls for the only border to be around the North American Union -- not between any of these countries. Or, as the CFR report stated:

The three governments should commit themselves to the long-term goal of dramatically diminishing the need for the current intensity of the governments' physical control of cross-border traffic, travel, and trade within North America. A long-term goal for a North American border action plan should be joint screening of travelers from third countries at their first point of entry into North America and the elimination of most controls over the temporary movement of these travelers within North America.

Discovering connections like this between the CFR recommendations and Bush administration policy gives credence to the argument that President Bush favors amnesty and open borders, as he originally said. Moreover, President Bush most likely continues to consider groups such as the Minuteman Project to be "vigilantes," as he has also said in response to a reporter's question during the March 2005 meeting with President Fox.

Why doesn't President Bush just tell the truth? His secret agenda is to dissolve the United States of America into the North American Union. The administration has no intent to secure the border, or to enforce rigorously existing immigration laws. Securing our border with Mexico is evidently one of the jobs President Bush just won't do. If a fence is going to be built on our border with Mexico, evidently the Minuteman Project is going to have to build the fence themselves. Will President Bush protect America's sovereignty, or is this too a job the Minuteman Project will have to do for him?

Mr. Corsi is the author of several books, including "Unfit for Command: Swift Boat Veterans Speak Out Against John Kerry" (along with John O'Neill), "Black Gold Stranglehold: The Myth of Scarcity and the Politics of Oil" (along with Craig R. Smith), "Atomic Iran: How the Terrorist Regime Bought the Bomb and American Politicians," and most recently, "Minute men: The Battle to Secure America's Borders." He will soon author a book on the Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America and the prospect of the forthcoming North American Union.

Good Post Corey.

Actually, it IS here as of 1/07.

Do a search on the PNAC documents.

This was/is the purpose of the "Tri"-lateral Commission, to split the globe (first) into Three Unions. EU - The Americas and the Asian Union.

Poppy Bush was the most obvious to say, "We have now entered a NEW WORLD ORDER."

No kidding ... but why don't 'we' 'know' that ?

Hang in there.

Re:, on: 2007/7/17 17:15

"New World Order"? What's that?

(looks around nervously behind wisps of cigarettes smoke... takes a sip of coffee...)

Shhhh... "They" are listening...

Like I said, God uses the foolish

1Co 12:22 Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary:

1Co 12:23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honorable, upon these we bestow more abundant honor; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness.

1Co 12:24 For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honor to that part which lacked:

1Co 12:25 That there should be no schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another.

1Co 12:26 And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honored, all the members rejoice with it.

oh Corey, where do you get this stuff?

do you ascribe to the views of Jerome Corsi and his lot at "human events"?

Don't worry, you Canadians will stay Canadian, God bless you all up there, we're fine down here.

Free trade is a good thing, free trade for free people.

this is funny, on: 2007/7/17 19:20 not 4 years ago 90% of the posters on this forum were going on about great President Bush was, practically annointed h im "pastor-in-chief". Now, what are some of you doing and reading? going from the right wing to the far right wing?

Don't you realize most Americans are in the center, and they just want a President, a leader with integrity and a vision?

I know the kind of folks I want to see elected, but one of them isn't running and if I said who the other two were, it would j ust cause a politic dust-up here, and thats not what this forum is about.

Re: this is funny, on: 2007/7/17 19:38

Mr. Worm, you didn't even read the links, did you ?

I haven't voted since Reagan. Do you really think your vote counts ?

Look into blackboxvoting someday.

As least you didn't ask me or Corey to answer if we "love you" or not.

You took the role of Jesus with Danielle and are you doing it again here on this thread ?

American Christians are the most deceived people in this entire world and you just proved it.

"worm" doesn't suit your style neither.

All I've seen you do is go from thread to thread mocking and possibly hurting a few sisters.

How wormish do you have to be to hurt sisters ?

Anyways, THIS is why I put the links up there Corey. THIS is what happens whenever you try to wake neocons or sleep ing Christians up.

Or try to tell folks that things are not as rosey as they have deceived themselves into believing they are, so that they can continue to believe that the freedom they have now, sitting and posting to whomever & however will last forever.

Know-it-alls don't read links or Research what you post because it makes them "uncomfortable", so just post and then n o one's blood is on your head.

Thanks Corey for caring enough about All of us to post whatever you see out there.

Thank you!

oh YES I did, always do. I consider it a duty, to when i respond to a post that contains links.

I read fast.

yes I do, and if a citizen doesn't vote, they have no right to whine and squall about the national polity.

Furthermore, this question you asked me:

Quote:

what do you mean by that?

what do you mean by this?:

what's the matter with you?

why would you write that to me?

calling me names, hateful names, filled with bitterness, why?

sister, I'm going to tell this right now, in this life, you have two choices; either you a child of the Light, or a child of darkness.

you pick.

May God sooth and bless your heart, slap away....heres' the other cheek. You got the last word.

Re: grannie annie, on: 2007/7/17 20:18

one last note to grannie annie, when I say, child of the Light, I'm referring to a follower of Jesus, not the "illumnati".....just so you're clear on that.

You can dish it out but you sure can't take it worm.

Not just on this thread. Should I go to the others and pull from them some of the one-liners that make us think you DO know it all ?

People get hurt TOO worm, not just you.

And again, not just on this thread - not by a long shot.

If you're going to dish it out, try taking some.

If you don't remember putting Danielle through your "do you love me" trip, then I wonder about your memory now too.

And yes, if you didn't look up what I posted just now on 'black box voting' then you are deceived to think you are going to vote in the next President.

I was asking you - What's the matter with you ?

I asked first.

If you don't know why I wrote those things to you, then your memory is worse than anyone I've seen on here I truly pray for you that it's not as bad as you're making it appear.

Anyone playing "Jesus" on her to a sister should be asking himself what "light" is he in.

You quit slapping first and I will too.

GOD through Christ Jesus has my heart very soothed and Blessed btw.

I don't need blessings and lies all in one post from you.

Thanks anyways.

Do you love me ? :-(

Re: North American Union - Coming to a Continent Near You!, on: 2007/7/17 20:27

I am a Canadian, I can assure everyone reading this that Canadians are not all keen on unifying with the United States. Canada likes doing business, sharing ideas, but as far as unification is concerned it's a no no. Our current Prime Minister is conservative and the conservative parties alternative in the US is the Republican therefore they are in agreement. However, if and when this government changes to a Liberal government the winds will change. The government before the last liberal government was conservative and they too made deals with the US in what is known as the "North American Free Trade Agreement" which Canadians were not at all in favour of and they are still opposed to it because of the lumber disputes in that the US owes millions of dollars to the Canadian government in which they will not pay.

There is a new old plan that would unify the New England states with the Canadian maritime provinces. The plan is called " (<http://atlantica.org/>) Atlantica" There is huge opposition from the Canadian side on this issue.
