

News and Current Events :: PA Boy Kills Brother Over Video Game

PA Boy Kills Brother Over Video Game - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2007/7/18 3:19

PA Boy Kills Brother Over Video Game

LANSDOWNE, Pa. (AP) - A 13-year-old boy fatally stabbed his brother with a steak knife after the 16-year-old refused to turn over a video game controller, authorities said.

Jahmir Ricks was charged with first-degree murder in the death of Antwan Ricks at their home outside Philadelphia. The older boy died of a single stab wound to the chest, police said, and a bent and bloody knife was recovered from the home.

Lansdowne police said the younger boy told them, "I just stabbed my brother," when they arrived at the home Sunday. Police believe the argument started when Antwan Ricks would not turn over the game controller after losing a game to his brother. Police Chief Daniel Kortan said the rules of the house were that the person who lost had to give someone else a chance to play.

read more: http://www.breitbart.com/article.php?id=D8QEFJEG0&show_article=1

Re: PA Boy Kills Brother Over Video Game - posted by enid, on: 2007/7/18 4:35

This is the kind of article I read and words fail me. They really do.

Someone loses their life over a video game.

What can you say?

That's it for me.

God bless.

Re:, on: 2007/7/18 9:01

Gee... wonder if it was a violent game.

Krispy