

Miracles that follow the plow :: 1 John 4, Eph 5, and Roman Catholics at dinner...*1 John 4, Eph 5, and Roman Catholics at dinner... - posted by theopenlife, on: 2007/8/16 22:17

Please pray for me, that God will somehow be most glorified through tonight and the coming weeks.

I just moved back into my parents' home. I've been out for about six years, lived in other countries. Despite having been "raised Christian" and graduating from a bible college, I wasn't born again until last September.

Tonight is my older sister's birthday and she's coming for dinner. She converted to Roman Catholicism three years ago. I haven't seen or spoken with her in about a year.

On another note... 1 John 4 and Ephesians 5, and 2 Cor. 7:1...

I've been meditating on these. Specifically how others, and myself at times, rationalize what it means to give your goods to brothers in need. Or what it means to not let filthiness of speech be "once named among you", or to perfect holiness in the fear of God.

This might be a long year.

"Do not be surprised when the world hates you."

Love,

Re: 1 John 4, Eph 5, and Roman Catholics at dinner... - posted by awakenwithin (), on: 2007/8/16 23:35

I am praying for you brother, I will pray for you sister. the Lord is good. I understand how hard it can be living with family. But know this there are many blessing within in it. Indeed, may the Lord help you be kind with all your words.

Glory glory to the Lord..

May he draw you his feet, Hold out your hands and ask for More Grace, more Grace.

what is your sisters name..

AND we praise God for what he has done through you.

in his love

charlene

Re: - posted by theopenlife, on: 2007/8/16 23:50

Thanks so much, Charlene. Her name is Cari.

After dinner my dad read an article about what it means to be born again. Dead silence. "Desert, anyone?" said mom.

I gave my older brother a CD with Paul Washer, Ravenhill, and the Revival Hymn on it.

May God change everything.

Re: - posted by MaryJane, on: 2007/8/17 0:00

Greetings brother

I will be praying for you and your sister. My mother is a strong Catholic, it is so sad to see her so deceived. I know how you are feeling. I pray that your dear sister's heart will be soften and open to what Father might have you share with her and that He will use you mightily in their lives.

God Bless you

Maryjane

Miracles that follow the plow :: 1 John 4, Eph 5, and Roman Catholics at dinner...

Re: - posted by awakenwithin (), on: 2007/8/18 17:30

I am praying for her thanks for the name,
Mary jane I am praying for your mother too,, thanks for telling
Charlene