Here are the new Emoticon Icons that have replaced over the old ones and there are a few new ones! Enjoy. I have gotten quite a few requests for this over the last months, This will help people express themselves better I suppose. I liked the look of them over the different coloured ones before because some of them were quite dark and hard to distinguish.

I have also took the time to change the look and some of the topic icons. I hope you like the look I feel its much easier on the eyes in grey and some of the icons are more clear in their expression. Hopefully with these changes of the emoticon and the topic icons people can express themselves better, but do remember using proper language you can express yourself the utmost. The english language is very powerful and with practice you can expressive yourself powerfully and clearly using written words.
