Evangelism: The Day After Thanksgiving - posted by KingJimmy (), on: 2007/11/15 13:27

I just thought I'd put an idea out there for everybody to consider. Next week, on November 23, is the day after Thanksgiving. With that, people, probably including yourself, go and stand outside local retail stores very early in the morning to take advantage of all the sales. Having worked retail for the past 5 years at Target, there will be literally hundreds of people outside many stores.

Consider going out early to your local big-box retail stores this year, and perhaps bring some gospel tracts, CD compilations, Bibles, and maybe even conduct a short open-air campaign. This is a great chance to reach the masses, and only happens one other day this year: Christmas Eve.

I hope you feel inspired...
