Super Bowl worship event expands as network of Christian NFL players grows

PHOENIX (BP)--The annual Super Bowl Gospel Celebration is "one of the few nightly events you can bring your entire family to," former Dallas Cowboys offensive lineman Marcus Price said of the gathering of NFL players, coaches and fans in town for Sunday's matchup between the New England Patriots and New York Giants.

"It's an outlet for great gospel music, but also an outlet for real Christians who don't go out to the parties and the nightclubs," Price said of Friday's sold-out celebration at the Phoenix Symphony Hall.

"You get what you want to find at the Super Bowl," Price reflected, "but this is a night we can celebrate our love and our faith."
