Brothers and Sisters,

Oh what God could do in the midst of this generation! We need revival. Here are some photos of the town hall and the old church that God has opened up for the Scotland Revival Conference 2008!

The Location is Greenock, Scotland and the Dates for the event are: NOVEMBER 25th-27th 2008!

Below are pictures of the venues (the town hall for the 3 days) and the Church for the last night!

Well, let me say that if the Lord would will it I would love to be in attendance. I really enjoyed the meetings in Canton and would love to meet more brothers and sisters in the UK.

Above all, that God would indeed send His Holy Spirit that we might come into a renewal of our first love experience with God.

(Jeremiah 4:3) For thus saith the LORD to the men of Judah and Jerusalem, Break up your fallow ground, and sow not among thorns.

We are still seeking the Lord to have a "American Conference" this year also in October. There are 4 speakers confirmed for the event at this time. Please do keep praying God puts it on the hearts of those that need to come and speak at the Scotland event.

Within the next month there will be detailed information ready and you can also register by that time also. The dates are here so you can tentatively start planning ahead.

Keep praying brothers and sisters and I will post more updates as things progress in God's timing.

Greg,

I have come across an amazing, anointed and fiery 25 year old Youth Pastor in Australia who might be a candidate for the Scotland Revival Conference.

Every time I listen to his talks I end up weeping.
Although he is a Youth Pastor, I am 62 but his words touch my spirit every time.

His latest (Suffering) you can listen to here:
<http://www.christianaudio.org.uk/youth.html>

I believe you have some of his earlier talks on this site.

He does not know of this approach, by the way.

Thank you dear brother, I will prayerfully consider him.

Yes May God get all the Glory from these meetings. I just heard Lou Suter "live" preach on the Glory of God in prayer!! what a powerful message I hope to get up on the site soon.

Revival is vindication of God's name and His honor.

I would like to hear from some brothers in Europe and Scotland of good speakers that are Scottish that have a heart for revival?

Re: Revival Conference 2008: Greenock, Scotland, on: 2008/3/4 8:12

Greg,

Phil Wall is not a Scot - he's English I think - a salvationist - wasn't an officer the last I heard - just an ordinary soldier - but with an international ministry. I understand he, and what is known as Salvation Army top brass, don't see eye to eye on everything.

I've heard him speak at a conference, and he is powerful - not loud; he challenges our comfort zones, and makes a strong call to become like Jesus.

WAOW! I joined this site some years ago, but was never really much of a partaker in discussions. Every so often I look at some topics and prayer requests. Today, I was just popping by, and saw the title with mention of this event....in Greenock! That's where I live!!!! I'm gobsmacked!

The founder of my church was saved under the preaching of George Jefferys during the time he was here. She has since gone Home.

Our church is currently experiencing a fresh breath of God which can only be described as the beginning of revival! For this we have prayed....and are still praying.

If you want more details our website is www.struthers-church.org

God bless you as you seek to organise this event for His glory- Amen!

Keep praying saints as details are being worked on. The registration page should be up in a week or 2.

Re: - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2008/3/10 16:15

It is looking likely that the american conference will not be working out this year, we have been waiting on the Lord for His will and it seems that doors are not opening at this point and things aren't coming together.

On the otherhand the scotland event has been very dynamic and prayer after prayer has been answered. Keep praying saints. Do note that the scotland conference will be LIVE WEBCASTED so that people back in North America will be able to watch many if not all the sessions live.

Re: - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2008/3/10 17:35

I have put up the "registration" page for the scotland event here: <http://revivalconference.eventbrite.com/>

also this page has changed with more information: <https://www.sermonindex.net/revivalconference.php>

Brother, I stopped your quote here, because it seems the right place to rest.

You weren't this far ahead at this point in the year last year with the first conference, and it seems to me perfectly possible

e that once enough is finalised on the Scottish conference, doors may begin to open for the American one.

God is full of surprises, sometimes.

Maybe He would like it held over a weekend, for instance, like most other short conferences to which working people are invited.

Maybe He wants it in Canada, or Texas, or California (not that I know where you've been looking).

I would like to share also, that having been in Scotland in years past, and having heard prophecy about God moving in the UK, for instance, in one, sparks flew off a hub (where I was at the time), and ignited other places, there is something solid in my spirit about this venture in Scotland, for which I had no heart at all when England had been mooted. (Nothing against England. It didn't click like this is doing.)

I was very surprised at your Scottish location, but delighted, as I've been there many times on the way to Argyll for holidays. It's a great part of the world for anyone who wants to stay on to travel for a few days as a tourist.

(<http://www.geo.ed.ac.uk/scotgaz/councils/region4.html>) Argyll and Bute clickable map

If you call up this page, then click the arrow beneath the map, it changes to Inverclyde, where Greenock is situated. Ferries leave from Gourock.

(Actually, this is a gazetteer for Scotland and each click takes you to the next region, showing main roads. There are trains too, but not shown.)
