Hi, I talked to an old friend that I haven't spoken to in several years yesterday. She has had a very rough time over the past 5-6 years. She is a Christian, but has made some very foolish decisions. So please pray for God to give her wisdom to start making correct choices and she can get out of the hole she is in. And please pray that she will let God heal the hurts she carries. God has much better for her than what she is accepting.

Please keep praying for her, she really needs it. Please pray for me too, as I have been very worried about her for the past few days...

Can you also please pray for her to have a clear understanding of what God's will for her is?
