Hope it is just a temporary problem. It plagued me all day yesterday. Click on a topic and never get there, instead kept getting a 'error' page. Sorry, I didn't save any of them, I will if I get them today. It seems like I will.

I will try and take it as a good sign of increased traffic and interest. :)

When I am trying to reply to something it feels more like something is blocking me. I will endeavor to persevere.

Cheers, white stone

I saw some 500 level errors yesterday, which means it is a server error. In other words, it wasn't a problem with your particular machine. There must have been a problem somewhere on the "SermonIndex" side of things.

I have been having some random troubles viewing the threads this morning. I do think it must be server issue.

I just signed on and am experiencing similar issues with downloading the audio sermons and podcasts. Constantly getting 404 errors (URL can't be found). I'm able to get other podcasts to download and the oldpaths magazines are downloading fine, just not the audios...
