

Miracles that follow the plow :: Humbled by the Lord

Humbled by the Lord - posted by crusader (), on: 2009/3/15 9:41

Today at work i was thinking about alot of the Garbage that people talk about at work and an anger was creeping in and then i started to judge them in my thoughts. The lord quickend to my mind that it is my reactions to these situations that glorifies his name and that i must take the plank out of my eye (or in my case the forrest)before trying to remove a spec k from their eyes.

When i looked at myself i could see that my responcees durring the past week when interacting with other staff members were not in love they were just words of fleshly hate. i know how to express Gods law but i normally do this with a comp assionate heart for the hope that the veil will be lifted of their eyes and that they may see the truth of their condition befor e God.In this instance i have caused fleshly offence to blind worldly people.

today i will ask each staff member for forgiveness for my attitude with true humility and compassion. i will remember that i must get smaller so that christ may getting bigger in my testimoney.

i have so much to write tonight but i need to go to bed. I am so Greatfull that Jesus had enough grace and mercy to hav e fellowship with such a wretched, sinfull man like me. what a holy righteous God we serve. Praise to the Lord Jesus Ch rist and may every particle in this life shout out praises to him and testify that he is the KIng of Kings

Re: Humbled by the Lord - posted by growingholly, on: 2009/3/16 12:32

this is good news, praise His name!

praying over you and for the Lord's name to be praised in all this.