

News and Current Events :: Muslim Demographics

Muslim Demographics - posted by JoanM, on: 2009/5/4 14:09

Another very sobering part of the picture. End times? The dispirit need for revival is very clear here. I was not aware of this, particularly in the UK.

Is this unexpected fruit of growing immorality, contraception and abortion? 17 years in not a long time.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6-3X5hIFXYU>

Re: Muslim Demographics - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2009/5/4 15:38

It is a very true statement at the end of the video that Islam will be the largest religion in the next few decades in the entire world.

Re: Muslim Demographics - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2009/5/4 21:13

Quote:

-----Is this unexpected fruit of growing immorality, contraception and abortion? 17 years in not a long time.

What has happened since WW2 is that women joined the workforce and it became unfashionable to have a large family. Being a stay-at-home-mom became rare, something society frowned upon...you know what 'they' say. Fortunately, there are still some Christians who never bought into this lie.

There is another phenomenon I have noticed. This concerns the number of couples who are childless, not by choice. They themselves may be an only child or one of two. So with their passing, that family line comes to an end. I am also seeing couples who had only two children who end up never marrying, their children grow old and this family line comes to an end. It seems to be quite common in homes where the parents have left the faith. Anyone else noticed that?

This video's message is sobering. I have heard it elsewhere, but thanks for posting the link to it - think I will pass it on to my friends.

ginnyrose

Re: Muslim Demographics - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2009/5/7 23:07

This is presently a hot topic. Yesterday I heard it being discussed on American Family Radio. One of the guests on AFR said that presently Muslim leaders are discussing when and how beheading should be administered to Muslim apostates. Somehow Revelation 20:4 is starting to make a lot of practical sense. The execution by beheading was common hundreds of years ago except for Muslim countries. If it should become commonplace again....

ginnyrose

Re: - posted by White_Stone (), on: 2009/5/8 0:21

On another Forum I visit (a secular one) this video was posted. There were complaints of it being racist.

There are so many who have eyes but can not see.

My eyes are turned upward, watching.

white stone

Re: Muslim Demographics - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2009/5/8 22:51

I keep thinking about this video...can't get it out of my mind - and I have a lot of time to think while I am working...

Those Muslims who are having on the average eight children - how do they support such a large family? Do they not all live in cities? I know the work, time, money required to raise a family of five, but eight? Do not most of the Muslims live in cities? Those of us who live in the country have land on which one can grow your own meat and produce, not so with city folks. I am not challenging the stats, it is just that some things don't make sense, but I attribute that to ignorance and would like to be enlightened.

ginnyrose

Re: Muslim Demographics, on: 2009/5/9 2:15

brothers and sisters,

you are barking up the wrong tree, if this is the video to "move" you, it is so full of the anti-Christ spirit, it reeks of sin, stinks of the flesh, it takes my breath away. the devil is cunning, he operates by putting humans into fear mode, can't you see that?

you fear muslims?!? you fear islam?!?

FEAR GOD!!!

(I want to say more, but I pray God I be quiet, don't let the devil play you all like this)

Re: , on: 2009/5/9 2:55

What are people's thoughts on the first 7 verses of Daniel chpt 8?

I agree with neil. "It is written" by those who have planned a nwo from the beginning to take out the three monotheistic religions by pitting them against each other and the Alice Bailey-ites of the New Age have desired to rid the world of these three monotheistic religions because they won't accept the New World Religion by merging with them. Albert Pike, the author of Morals and Dogma, whose statue stands on the sidewalk of D.C. had a Masonic vision that WW3 would accomplish this nwo by pitting the three against each other. Those who are striving to take over Jerusalem are doing it with all plans for their world leader or "christ" to rule and reign from there. All these things happening now are to prepare the way for 'him' which they say will come on the scene with this World war - Daniel 8.

How anyone could think we have "decades" left - I can't figure out.

Re: - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2009/5/9 19:51

Neil,

I have been thinking a lot about this video because of the possibilities our grandchildren may face.

Our son-in-law's brother has lived in a Muslim country for many years. The fact that he has not been deported for religious reasons can only be attributed to the protection of God, nothing less. It is rated as being among the most oppressive countries in the world. And how do Christians fare? About like a snowball in the sun on a Mississippi day in July: the only way it can survive is in the freezer.

Neil, I do not think I am being fearful about the future, but we do know what Scripture says about the future. As we see things developing politically that heretofore did not make much sense is suddenly becoming understandable.

BTW, I do not find the book of Revelation oppressive but very encouraging: I love the book! So the stats shared in this video becomes quite fascinating. The most recent time when I read the book I sensed it may well be referring to Muslims in places...This is an issue I refuse to debate or even defend. Let's just say I see the possibilities which only time will tell and I am content with that.

Blessings,
ginnyrose

GinnyRose, on: 2009/5/10 0:59

Beloved,

I said what I had to say. I have a lot more to say, but there would be no profit or edification in such discourse.

In His love, neil

Re: GinnyRose - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2009/5/11 23:53

God bless you, Neil. The reality is that regardless one's position on end-times, God will do as HE pleases: He will not be consulting any human book for directions, instructions on how to do His thing!

I, for one, do not enjoy debating eschatology. I think it is an act of futility. I love to read Revelation, using the comprehension skills learned in grade school, and with the aid of the Holy Spirit I find it very fascinating, hence my reluctance in debating it. So, if one disagrees, that is OK - it just might be that someone else may see something I missed and this little insight may trigger another inspiring insight.

Blessings,
ginnyrose

hawaii - posted by dohzman (), on: 2009/5/12 6:15

I understand that Hawaii has just made or is in the process of making an islamic holiday for that state and that they are in the process of removing all outward christian symbols like the cross. Sign of things to come?

in my "Daily Text", on: 2009/5/12 13:26

that I receive daily in my email from the Moravian's, I was blessed with this precious bit of Scripture(and prayer):

"You shall love the alien as yourself. Leviticus 19:34

May the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all. 1
Thessalonians 3:12

God of boundless love, you have shown us how to care for others, regardless of differences. As your followers, show us the path to offering Christ-like love in our communities. Amen."

"Slice" that how any of you may, but He was speaking to my heart, specifically in regards to the onus of this thread.

in Jesus' love, neil

Militant, Nominal, or Forced, is it really a threat? - posted by anonymity, on: 2009/5/15 2:10

I have heard the statistics many times before.

This is a well done and interesting video.

I think though that there are questions as to whether this is a really large threat. Are they fundamental orthodox militant Muslims or just nominal or are they only saying they are Muslims for safety. I mean many are born into it and please their families or their country or they are forced into it or killed or at least restricted from college and other things. What are your thoughts can you prove that these masses of Muslims on a large enough scale to persuade are militant or nominal? Maybe it can be said that most nations that have become Islamic have at some point later on become militant I don't know... I think I might also say that Catholicism has many numbers and has in the past been militant as so Hinduism and others and they are large and is there a real pressing threat at this point? Are we just puffing up the threat of Islam?