Tonight as I was washing dishes, my husband was sitting at the table keeping me company. He looked at the rather lengthy 'To Do' list laying on the table and told me he just realized - he does not have to actually do everything on the list in order to cross it off. :-?

If it was only so simple. . .

Looks to me like you missed one thing: get hubby to dry your dishes!

Then he would have felt so needed and useful! :-)
