

Devotional Thoughts :: Oh, to Walk After the Lord*Oh, to Walk After the Lord - posted by Tonda, on: 2009/11/4 12:44

“You shall walk after the Lord your God and fear Him, and keep His commandments and obey His voice, and you shall serve Him and cling to Him (Deut 13:4, AMP).”

Oh, That I may follow the Lord, walking only in His footprints. Not deviating to the right hand or to the left hand. That I will always show Him the reverence that is due Him and have godly fear, trembling at His word and His power. That, through the power of His Holy Spirit I will keep all of His commands. That He will graciously and mercifully enable me to hear His voice and quicken me through His Spirit to speedily, unreservedly, and without fear of mere mortals - Obey the words that He speaks to me...every single word that He speaks to me - leaving nothing undone that He wants done, nothing unsaid that He wants said...and adding nothing thereunto. And that I may CLING to Him as my only sure hope of salvation, my only comfort, my only strength, my all and all, my EVERYTHING!

Oh God, make it so...make it so, even this moment and for every moment that You shall allow breath to flow through this mortal body... even until all of the magnificent, unsearchable glories of Him to whom I've clung have been unveiled before my very eyes in all of their radiance and I am finally able to gaze upon Him whom my soul loveth!

-Tonda Canterbury

Re: Oh, to Walk After the Lord - posted by HeartSong, on: 2009/11/4 13:10

Amen! This is the cry of my heart.