I too have Wayne Grudem's Systematic Theology, listened to some of Attributes of God by A.W. Pink on audio downloaded as a podcast. Working through Paul Washer's "One True God" (highly recommended). These studies, done in right spirit, are like a non-musical form of worship.

I've got it in mind to read Baxter's "Reformed Pastor" at some point. Wouldn't mind checking out Piper's "Pleasures of God."

You can get some of these older works in audio format. I know Spurgeon's "Letters to My Students" and "Soul Winner," and "Attributes of God" by A.W. Pink are available in podcast format.

A good resource:

You'll be able to find some of the listed works in there; the old ones, that is.

Thank you Giggles for pulling this together :)
