Some 390 tons of U.S. ground beef recalled

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Some 390 tons of ground beef produced by a California meat packer, some of it nearly two years ago, is being recalled for fear of potentially deadly E. coli bacterium tainting, U.S. officials said on Monday.

The beef was produced by Huntington Meat Packing Inc of Montebello, California, and shipped mainly to California outlets, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's food safety arm said.

An initial problem, in ground beef shipped by the plant from January 5 to January 15, was discovered during a regular safety check, the Food Safety and Inspection Service said.

It said it had received no reports of illnesses associated with consumption of the recalled products. ...

Greetings Greg

I just wanted to say thanks for posting this. As someone who does not follow the news often it is nice to have a caring brother who posts these things so I don't have to hit some of the worldly news sites myself. There are many things on some of those sites that have in the past caused me to stumble so having you share these things here really has been a blessing and help to me.

Thank you and God Bless
