

News and Current Events :: Ken Ham, Creation scientist," State of the union 2" webcast

Ken Ham, Creation scientist," State of the union 2" webcast, on: 2010/2/16 5:53

There will be a live webcast tues Feb 16th at 8 pm est.

Ken ham is a brilliant biblical creation scientist. here is the linko. enjoy!

<http://www.answersingenesis.org/>

Re: Ken Ham, Creation scientist," State of the union 2" webcast, on: 2010/2/16 7:45

I think it was the brilliant carpenter Jesus Christ who said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one gets to Father except through Me". Jn 14:6

And the brilliant tent maker Paul who said: "God was pleased through the foolishness of what was preached to save those who believe. 22Jews demand miraculous signs and Greeks look for wisdom, 23but we preach Christ crucified: a stumbling block to Jews and foolishness to Gentiles, 24but to those whom God has called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. 25For the foolishness of God is wiser than man's wisdom, and the weakness of God is stronger than man's strength." 1 Cor: 21-25

Scripture gives instruction on how it is to be preached and taught. When Paul came under the law to win some under the law for Christ 1 Cor 9:19-21 he preached Christ. Likewise some of these Creationists should do the same under 'science'. I don't see enough of that. Conviction of sin and repentance in Christ is what the evolutionists need. Our prayer should be for this. I believe the creationists concerning the truth of the Bible because of Christ, not because of their savvy intellectual arguments. I understand the desire to tie science to it's Creator... God. But the Bible I read is a book of faith. Abraham didn't have science yet righteousness was credited to him via faith. It is in this same faith that we are justified as righteous children who belong to Christ.

Re: - posted by enid, on: 2010/2/16 8:50

Maybe I missed it, but I don't recall Abraham conversing with evolutionist.

Also, the role of some creation ministries, is to help Christians understand that God is creator, as some even question this, and to strengthen the faith of believers.

Some Christians are so weak minded, as the word of God tells us, that they would believe extra-biblical teachings as opposed to what the word of God says.

Still, as it is, we need to reach people, God's way. Some people will not step foot through a building to hear the word of God, or will mock at street preaching or evangelism.

It's hard for them to mock or not listen to something they themselves are involved in.

As the word of God tells us, we are to do all to the glory of God, 1 Cor 10v31.

1 Peter 1v3v15 tells us to give a reason for the hope that is in us.

When people ask us questions, do we just say, "I don't know." Then wonder why they mock. Yes, they mock when we have answers, but at least they have something to think about for a change.

Still, it's all in God's hands.

God bless.

Re: , on: 2010/2/16 9:03

"Maybe I missed it, but I don't recall Abraham conversing with evolutionist." enid

Neither did Christ or Paul. So do their instructions make evolutionists exempt? Unsaved is unsaved. And does this make faith any less important to the unsaved which were here then and now?

"It's hard for them to mock or not listen to something they themselves are involved in." enid

Sadly Paul and Christ were both mocked...but they held firm to their instruction. And the Bible says we will be also as the cross is foolishness to them. Was Paul involved in the law, and a Jew, when he went under it to preach Christ? He was one of them, at one point, when he brought Christ forth. Even if creationism were proven scientifically, does it prove Christ? And if it did would this be the faith that the Bible says is necessary?

The end result has to be faith. Again Scripture instructs us how it is to be taught and preached.

"Some Christians are so weak minded, as the word of God tells us, that they would believe extra-biblical teachings as opposed to what the word of God says." enid

The reason you know some Christians are weak minded is because of The Word. Yet the same Word of God isn't sufficient for the strength of the remnant? The Word of God identifies the problem of weakness but it isn't sufficient to build up, encourage, or edify the same weakness it identifies?

Many of Paul's Epistle's were to the weak minded and for the weakminded.

Re: - posted by enid, on: 2010/2/16 9:39

You said it.

Re: , on: 2010/2/16 14:02

If a man with a mail-order Ph.D says it, it must be true.

Re: - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2010/2/16 14:12

the direct site for the webcast tonight is (<http://www.answerslive.org/>) <http://www.answerslive.org/> at 8pm EST

Re: Ken Ham, Creation scientist, " State of the union 2" webcast - posted by narrowpath, on: 2010/2/16 18:16

I admire Ken Ham's unyielding stand for the truth. It is alright to use scientific arguments, but ultimately creation is understood by faith.

Hebrews 11:3

In order to disbelieve creation a willful act of suppressing the truth is needed.

Romans 1:20-25

Re: , on: 2010/2/16 20:08

it's on now

Re: dogmatic truth - posted by Lysa (), on: 2010/2/16 20:21

Quote:

-----by narrowpath:

I admire Ken Ham's unyielding stand for the truth.

It is alright to use scientific arguments, but ultimately creation is understood by faith.

-----

I believe in Creation 100%, I just don't believe in Ken Ham's point of "truth" on it!!

God bless you narrowpath!

Re: LoinGirder - posted by Lysa (), on: 2010/2/16 21:15

Quote:

-----by LoinGirder

If a man with a mail-order Ph.D says it, it must be true.

-----

So says the mail-order Ph.D guy!!!

Re: , on: 2010/2/17 6:06

Ken's speech was primarily to the church. It was meant for the churches ears. Then the church can take that and the other info from all Godly sources and act upon it.

Also remember that Ken says in the speech that the primary goal of his ministry is the Gospel of Jesus Christ and seeing people saved. That's what he told that reporter.

May God bless SI and all other faithful ministries!

Re: , on: 2010/2/17 7:59

edit- narrowpath- I retract this statement to you now that I understand your point a little better. Thanks.

I'm more of a purist when it comes to preaching the Gospel for sure.

-----

"Ken's speech was primarily to the church. It was meant for the churches ears. Then the church can take that and the other info from all Godly sources and act upon it.

Also remember that Ken says in the speech that the primary goal of his ministry is the Gospel of Jesus Christ and seeing people saved. That's what he told that reporter." thingsabove

But these guys go all over and debate the unsaved evolutionists with their version of creation science, so I can't see how it's just for the church. Maybe this particular webinar is just for us but the concept as a whole can't be because they take it straight to the lost and debate it. Jesus said "I am the truth". Truth is a man not a formula. Paul said preach Christ crucified. The only way an evolutionist will be humbled enough to let go of their prideful scientific theory is to see the Man who can save him from his sin, not his science. It is through Him truth is known.

People can believe in creationism and still be lost. Need we look any further than the catholic church? Many of the catholic hierarchy are all over creation science, then they go say their rosary and pray to their patron saints. So they know 't he truth' that is creationism but they don't know "THE" Truth that is the man Jesus Christ.

Listen, God is interested in changing hearts, not minds. Heart of stone to flesh, not evolution to creationism. Creationism doesn't guarantee salvation, Christ is salvation. This debate shatters when a sinner repents and receives a new heart in Christ.

I'm all for this if Christ is preached 'in the Spirit'. But it's easy for us to cheer these guys on as those who are already saved.... saved by grace in Christ. What loss is it to us if sadly this stuff happens to fall empty at the judgment seat, we're still saved.

Maybe we should ask the question: Why did God allow Darwin to come on the scene? One could argue that it is because it gives people a clear choice between the theory and the truth of The Word. And perhaps it's God's way of saying that the truth will come His way, not ours. How can evolution possibly glorify Christ? Because only the truth in Him can dispel the myth of evolution the enemy has planted. If what I'm saying isn't true, then before Christ comes back creationism will be unequivocally proven scientifically. God will shake all things and only that which is of Him will be left standing. That's a very high standard. Maybe I'm wrong but from what I read in the Bible... pretty much everything points to Christ. Why wouldn't the Alpha and Omega not be sufficient in and of Himself? All things will lay under His feet and evolution will shatter. So if this is what the creationist scientists think will happen, then okay. And they should be in their prayer closet as much as they are researching, if this be God's will. But if Christ is being put on the back-burner or He is just a side item to many mindblowing scientific debates, then this is yet another failed attempt by the church to fit the square peg of intellectualism into the round hole of faith in Christ.

I think some who have been saved by grace and are now rooting for these guys are trying more to win an argument than save souls.

I hope this isn't the case and I'll leave it at this. God bless.

Re: - posted by enid, on: 2010/2/17 8:12

I don't know if anyone else got a private message from ccrider.

But I did.

The first two words were, 'You Dog.'

Re: - posted by ginnyrose (), on: 2010/2/17 8:22

Quote:

-----I believe in Creation 100%, I just don't believe in Ken Ham's point of "truth" on it!!
-----

Mind explaining this quote?

ginnyrose

Re: , on: 2010/2/17 8:26

This is my PM response sister enid in our misunderstanding.

"That's okay sister. I was trying to lighten the mood a little. That's all. If you don't like pm's that seek communion in the face of disagreement then I will not. But how was I supposed to know that until now? God bless you sister."

I was trying to lighten up the mood a little sister. 'You dog' was a light comment and I was actually complimenting you on your self control in the bantering. Only I know my intention in that. If you were offended I'm sorry.

I believe all others here who I have engaged in pm can vouch for my intentions with them. God bless.

edit- I was informed that I have hurt a dear sister, not brother. The edits reflect. Sorry.

Re: , on: 2010/2/17 8:33

When the Bible says "God has chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise" what that really means is that you must voluntarily lower your IQ to the double-digit range. That is why God sent us scientists with mail-order Ph.D's to teach us that the universe is 6000 years old and that satan put dinosaur bones in the ground to trick us into believing in evolution. Anyone who rejects this has put their faith in man rather than the word of God and cannot be saved.

Re: , on: 2010/2/17 8:35

And enid just so you know I will be no more trouble to you. At this point it's not worth defending misunderstandings that may have hurt another sister. Theis is the right time to take a step back from this which I intend to do.

Re: Keith Daniel - posted by Tears_of_joy, on: 2010/2/17 10:25

I hope everyone who is taking part into this discussion will take time to listen to this:

Romans 1 by Keith Daniel

(<https://www.sermonindex.net/modules/mydownloads/singlefile.php?lid17460>) <https://www.sermonindex.net/modules/mydownloads/singlefile.php?lid=17460>