There's a search button at the top of the home page in which you can plug in any topic and search. some Times forums come up and some times articles...Not sure if there is another way or not..

Try adding the word "forum" when you are utilizing the search. Might bring in more hits for what you're looking for.

I believe that is the only way, try adding the topic listing to the search that it might under such as General Topics or New s something to maybe make the search focus more on the forum or as Giggles said try adding the word Forum :)
