

General Topics :: parsing/morphology*parsing/morphology - posted by knitefall, on: 2010/9/26 21:53

Hello to all,

and to those who know what I'm talking about:

I am looking into interlinear books lately and I find them fascinating. I'm self studying the Greek "ABC's" among other items. I appreciate the parsing that goes with these various books. But was wondering if any of you knew of an online (or could send in e-mail) source for definitions for to the parsing? case, tense, mood, etc...

I know there have been two different morphology systems developed as I have looked over all the books I could find online. And a few do not match other writer's morphology. If there is a source for both of these systems, and anyone would like to help by sharing the location, I think the information will benefit others on here who are interested in the same.

And thank you ahead of your effort.

Re: parsing/morphology - posted by knitefall, on: 2010/9/28 12:10 here are some sites that have helped:

(<http://interlinearbible.org/genesis/1.htm>) <http://interlinearbible.org/genesis/1.htm>

and

(http://www.scripture4all.org/OnlineInterlinear/Greek_Index.htm) http://www.scripture4all.org/OnlineInterlinear/Greek_Index.htm