

Devotional Thoughts :: by Rees Howells

by Rees Howells - posted by Joyful_Heart, on: 2011/4/20 13:26

"I saw that by His coming in to me, He would love sinners through me, as He loved me. It would not be forcing myself to love others, any more than the Savior forced Himself to love me. No person could be an enemy to me, because I had been an enemy to Him before I was reconciled. If I live in the realm where He is I live to have mercy, and to be kind, to love others. Could the love of God in me do harm to anyone? I had left the world and its folly, and been born into that Kingdom where there is only the love of God--the most attractive life on the face of the earth."

---I learned, according to 1 John 4:20, that you don't love the Savior one bit more than you love the least one He died for.