

Devotional Thoughts :: The Great Exchange

I recently wrote a song and would appreciate not only opinions but also biblical input if at all possible. Lyrically is this biblically and theologically sound? I understand many people will come from different perspectives and backgrounds of theology, so a good part of me expects this. Thank you all very much.

Saint for a Sinner Righteous for the condemned Lover for the scornful True life is in Him Majestic for the Lacklustered Pure for the Stained You are true and Holy and Only You remain.

Chorus
Enter my Heart, make it right Cause I have nothing to give,
and only You satisfy I surrender now
I throw up my hands
I know the road is long but I have no better option cause You are my life

bridge
You are Marvelous
You are the Light
You are true than true and You willing died I know I'm complacent sometimes hard of hearing but Lord I need Your help in this persevering.

Thank you all for your help.
