Hi saints,

Greg has graciously allowed me to share about a book that I had been working on. Some may know that I write poetry and some may know that I love the subject of the presence of God. And so this book combines both passions. This is a book that contains all of the Psalms, and after each one a poem. I pray that people will find that the poems are like a unique commentary that stimulates some deeper thought into our study of the psalms. The last portion of the book is about the presence of God which can of course be controversial but I was just honest and open about what that means to me. You can find the book here..... <https://www.createpace.com/3900708>
