

General Topics :: The Next Christians

The Next Christians - posted by DEADn (), on: 2012/9/23 15:58

<http://www.onbeing.org/program/next-christians/4839>

I hear this program this morning while at work. It caught my attention for a simple reason. What I heard in this podcast reflects what is partly wrong with the organizational church as well as why the atheist, agnostic, secular humanists, and so forth, have against the church. One of the guys from Focus on the Family is in this and the information I heard I have heard the same thing from some atheist blogs which caused me to take notice on the why's of it. The whole thing lasts an hour. It is not a sermon but rather an interview of 2 people who are working together and I really found the content refreshing myself. I don't know what the term 'The Next Christians' are and I really don't care. I just cared about the content I heard.

See what you think.

John