

News and Current Events :: Record-Setting Blizzard Killed 75,000 Cows*Record-Setting Blizzard Killed 75,000 Cows - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2013/10/11 10:54

Ranchers are still digging out thousands of their cattle that became buried in a record-setting snowstorm in South Dakota a late last week and over the weekend. One would think the death of 75,000 cows by upwards of five feet of snow might get some national attention, but as one blogger observed, it has taken some time for the news of the precipitation massacre to reach outside of local media.

I searched the national news for more information. Nothing. Not a single report on any of major news sources that I found. Not CNN, not the NY Times, not MSNBC, Dawn Wink wrote Tuesday. I thought, Well, it is early and the state remains without power and encased in snow, perhaps tomorrow. So I checked again the next day. Nothing. It has now been four days and no national news coverage.

Wink dubbed it "The Blizzard that Never Was" ...

read more: <http://www.theblaze.com/stories/2013/10/10/a-record-setting-blizzard-killed-75000-cows-and-you-might-not-have-even-heard-about-it/>

Re: Record-Setting Blizzard Killed 75,000 Cows - posted by Lordoitagain (), on: 2013/10/11 19:36

They're all reporting it now:

The death toll is up to 100,000

<http://www.foxnews.com/us/2013/10/11/south-dakota-ranchers-reel-after-catastrophic-storm-leaves-up-to-100000-cattle/>

<http://www.cnn.com/2013/10/10/us/south-dakota-blizzard-kills-herds-cattle/>