

General Topics :: New Pope

New Pope, on: 2005/4/19 13:39

Well, they chose a new Pope...

Associated Press had this to say:

"Ratzinger served John Paul II since 1981 as head of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith."

I wonder if this new Pope believes the doctrine of the Catholic Church?

Anyone notice the group of Cardinals as they headed into the conclave to decide on a new Pope? All decked out in scarlett and purple...

Where have we heard that before, I wonder?

Rev 17:4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet color, and decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

Krispy

Re: New Pope, on: 2005/4/19 14:00

Krispy, DON'T GO THERE. NOT HEALTHY. LET IT BE. Bub

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 14:03

Quote:

-----Krispy, DON'T GO THERE. NOT HEALTHY. LET IT BE. Bub

Naw... cant do it, Bub... gotta go there. Gotta get in the way of people being deceived.

Krispy

Re: - posted by _Disciple_ (), on: 2005/4/19 14:14

Quote:

KrispyKrittr wrote:

Naw... cant do it, Bub... gotta go there. Gotta get in the way of people being deceived.

oww men it was terrible to see, and who is getting the glory, that old guy, it looks like he is an idol, as the people screaming and jelling.

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 14:22

Quote:
-----screaming and jelling.

... they must be jellin'...

(I think you meant yelling)

Yea, it is idolatry. And yet many Bible believers will clamor toward the Catholic Church and call them "brothers". What deception.

Krispy

Re: - posted by _Disciple_ (), on: 2005/4/19 14:33

Quote:

KrispyKrittr wrote:

Quote:
-----screaming and jelling.

... they must be jellin'...

(I think you meant yelling)

Yea, it is idolatry. And yet many Bible believers will clamor toward the Catholic Church and call them "brothers". What deception.

Krispy

(yeah my native language is dutch) yeah, i'm still not sure if they are our brothers and sister, i didn't dig it out, but this looks ridiculous.

and the new pope said something like "they chose me, the humble underserving one" ... well i say he is looking like a king instead of a servant.

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 14:37

Quote:

Sorry, I wasnt making fun of your handle on English! Forgive me.

I would encourage you to investigate for yourself the doctrines of the Catholic Church. It is the world's largest false religion.

Any body who tells you they are humble... isnt. :-)

Krispy

Re: New Pope - posted by AsliEren, on: 2005/4/19 14:40

The pope has no ministry and no gospel and the catholic church religious system doesn't either.

The 1 billion catholics each have a spiritual destiny God has planned for them but the Catholic system including its teachers is a white washed tomb full of dead man's bones.

Revelation 17-18 has a lot of good information on the Catholic system.

Re: - posted by MrBillPro (), on: 2005/4/19 14:47

I never had any issues with any Pope or really even cared that's all about religion until the last one made a remark about how the USA was a rich country and should be helping the world out more, well I wonder how much money is invested in all those buildings and stuff at the VATICAN CITY my guess would be billions, how much money are they providing to poor Countries for support? Judge not and be not Judged. :-)

Re: - posted by Mattie, on: 2005/4/19 14:58

the real question is do you pray that men may be snatched from the deception of the catholic church rather than merely come against it? it is a dangerous thing to merely come against with no hopes of seeing a people turn away. catholicism is a heresy in and of itself but God can snatch a man from ANYTHING.

Re: - posted by _Disciple_ (), on: 2005/4/19 14:58

Quote:

-----Sorry, I wasn't making fun of your handle on English! Forgive me.

doesn't matter bro :-)) i make here and there some grammar mistakez :-P but yeah i do remember one article about the pope, about the "mother church" and the great whore, but i didn't dig it out more, i'll sure do it, looks interesting, but also terrifying.

the verse of Galatians 1:6-8 came across my mind

"I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: Which is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed."

and too be honest, the whole story of Jesus upon the Cross with Maria as Holy Virgin (she was special) by men as mother in heaven exalted, co-redemption (don't know how you call it..) sounds not like the Gospel of Jesus Christ, who died alone a dead, separated from God, rejected by men, friends left Him alone. The pain the suffering the price He only could pay, was paid alone.

but i dig into it, do you mind if i pm you on this subjects later on? (when i have questions)

but let us stay focussed on Christ, that we may become an example (1 Tim 4:12)

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 15:01

Quote:

-----how much money are they providing to poor Countries for support?

This may sound strange coming from me... but they do a lot of humanitarian work around the world. Mother Theresa did a lot of good.

But good works will not save you. I've studied Mother Theresa's personal beliefs, and her beliefs were hideous... even for a Catholic. But it's amazing to me that if you point out that by the confession of her own mouth she was unsaved you will

Il be verbally attacked by many who call themselves Bible believing Christians.

Emotions dictate doctrine for a lot of Christians these days.

Krispy

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 15:03

Quote:
-----the real question is do you pray that men may be snatched from the deception of the catholic church rather than merely come against it? it is a dangerous thing to merely come against with no hopes of seeing a people turn away. catholicism is a heresy in and of itself but God can snatch a man from ANYTHING.

Every single day, Mattie. I have close friends that are caught up in it. I come against it because a warning needs to be issued about false religious systems in this late hour. It's amazing how even on this site I get PM's and responses from people who have no problem with the Catholic Church... it's just another denomination. I think that can be attributed to ignorance... and thats why I'm bent on educating whenever possible.

Krispy

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 15:04

Quote:
-----but i dig into it, do you mind if i pm you on this subjects later on? (when i have questions)

No problem... please do PM me.

Krispy

Re: - posted by MrBillPro (), on: 2005/4/19 15:07

Is this true?

During the Dark Ages the Catholic Church slaughtered over 150 million Christians, and this atrocity is never mentioned today! The world has almost completely forgotten the many millions of people who were burned at the stake by the papacy because they wanted to worship God according to the Bible.

The slaughter in Bosnia, Kosovo, Serbia, and Croatia is a direct result of the Vatican's involvement in this area, but you will never hear about it because the Jesuit-controlled news media not only refuse to mention it but they lie about the situation to keep the papacy from being suspected of their true involvement.

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 15:16

Quote:
-----During the Dark Ages the Catholic Church slaughtered over 150 million Christians, and this atrocity is never mentioned today! The world has almost completely forgotten the many millions of people who were burned at the stake by the papacy because they wanted to worship God according to the Bible.

I havent forgotten... it's always part of my teachings on the RCC.

Quote:

-----The slaughter in Bosnia, Kosovo, Serbia, and Croatia is a direct result of the Vatican's involvement in this area, but you will never hear about it because the Jesuit-controlled news media not only refuse to mention it but they lie about the situation to keep the papacy from being suspected of their true involvement.

I'm not up to speed on this... fill me in (send a PM). What are your sources and proof of this?

Krispy

Re: hideous saint, on: 2005/4/19 15:23

Krispy wrote:

Quote:

-----I've studied Mother Theresa's personal beliefs, and her beliefs were hideous... even for a Catholic

There you go again, you make a statement such as the one above without giving some facts.

What are those hideous beliefs, I can be swayed from believing that she was ok. I wasn't emotionally attached to her.

Karl 8-)

Re: New father new name, on: 2005/4/19 15:31

I was working today and the people that I work with are generally catholic, when the Pope was coming out on stage (I wasn't watching, but I heard it), I told them all jokingly, "your new father is out on the balcony go and see him". They were rushing to the TV saying on the way to it, "What is his name?".

The only name that I know of is Jesus the Christ.

Karl

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 15:35

Quote:

-----There you go again, you make a statement such as the one above without giving some facts

Hey now, bro... you know I always give facts. I posted a whole string of quotes from her on this site 3 or 4 weeks ago.

(a) "The dying, the crippled, the mentally ill, the unwanted, the unloved--they are Jesus in disguise. ... poor people I have an opportunity to be 24 hours a day with Jesus." children of God have been created for greater things" (1/13/86 Time).

(b) "You must make them feel loved and wanted. They are Jesus for me."

(c) "I love all religions. ... If people become better Hindus, better Muslims, better Buddhists by our acts of love, then there is something else growing there."

It should be clear that "Mother" Teresa is anything but an Evangelical Christian. She is a self-sacrificing woman who is following a false religion. Consider some quotes from her speech at the 10/84 Worldwide Retreat for Priests:

(a) "At the word of a priest, that little piece of bread becomes the body of Christ, the Bread of Life."

(b) "Without a priest, without Jesus going with them, our sisters couldn't go anywhere."

(c) "When the priest is there, then can we have our altar and our tabernacle and our Jesus. Only the priest put Jesus there for us. ... Jesus wants to go there, but we cannot bring him unless you first give him to us. This is why I love priests so much. We could never be what we are and do the things we do without you priests who first bring Jesus to us."

(d) "Mary ... is our patroness and our Mother, and she is always leading us to Jesus."

No one would deny that "Mother" Teresa is doing a marvelous piece of wonderful humanitarian work among the poor and neglected of the world, but what gospel does she preach to them? She is definitely not leading them to the one, true, eternal salvation through the finished sacrifice of Calvary. "Mother" Teresa provides the classic example of compassionate and charitable deeds divorced from truth. She says that her purpose is to bring her patients closer to the "God" in whom they already believe; so that a Hindu becomes a better Hindu, a Buddhist a better Buddhist, etc. (Vatican II says those of all religions are somehow saved through the Church.) She tells how to witness for Jesus: In an interview with a nun who works with "Mother" Teresa (reported in Christian News), dying Hindus were instructed to pray to their own Hindu gods!:

"These people are waiting to die. What are you telling them to prepare them for death and eternity? She replied candidly, 'We tell them to pray to their Bhagwan, to their gods.'"

She was instructing these staunch Hindus to pray sincerely to their own Hindu idols and she felt that if they did this, God would certainly not judge them! No matter how plausible from man's earthly vantage point, when good works are conducted by unregenerate religious people, what is promoted is a cursed false gospel, encouraging the lost heathen to have hope in their false gods, even as they lay upon their death beds. In God's eyes, therefore, the entire endeavor is a cursed one, and no Christian should support, assist, or praise a work cursed by God!

The following is from an interview with a Catholic nun, "Sister" Ann, who worked in Kathmandu, Nepal, with "Mother" Teresa's organization Missionaries of Charity. The interview was conducted 11/23/84 at the Pashupati Temple.

Q: Do you believe if they die believing in Shiva or in Ram they will go to heaven?

A: Yes, that is their faith. My own faith will lead me to God, ... So if they have believed in their god very strongly, if they have faith, surely they will be saved.

Q: Today it does not seem that the Catholic Church is trying to convert anymore. I know that John Paul II is saying now that those of other religions are saved. You do not believe they are lost anyway, right?

A: No, they are not lost. They are saved according to their faith, you know. If they believe whatever they believe, that is their salvation.

Obviously, then, "Mother" Teresa is both a pantheist and a Universalist--Universalists maintain that Muslims, Hindus, Jews, and other non-Christians can get to heaven without saving faith in Christ; they are those who believe that all who sincerely follow their own religions or beliefs will be saved. "Mother" Teresa tells Muslims and Jews that they worship the same God that Christians worship. "Mother" Teresa has even called atheistic communists children of God!

"Mother" Teresa is very much in the mainstream of the ecumenical world evangelization project "Evangelization 2000." She was on hand in June, 1987, by invitation, to help dedicate the offices of Evangelization 2000 in Rome. She is an honorary member of Lumen 2000, the electronic media aspect of Evangelization 2000. The first issue of New Evangelization 2000 features "Mother" Teresa prominently with photographs of her, and one entire article entitled, "Mother Teresa Promises Support." (Reported in the 2/15/93 Bold Truth Press .)

"Mother" Teresa is also involved in various projects with New Agers and "one-worlders." In 1985, "Mother" Teresa attended a conference sponsored by the United Nations University of Peace whose featured agenda was a call to bring about the New World Order. Others participating in the "Spirit of Peace" conference included Marilyn Ferguson, leading proponent of the New Age movement; Prince Bernhardt of the Netherlands, commonly known as a leader of the one-world secret elitist society, the Bilderbergers; "His Holiness" Tenzin Gyatso, the XIV Dalai Lama of Tibet; Helen Caldicott, president of "Physicians for Social Responsibility," an organization favoring U.S. unilateral disarmament; Bishop Desmond Tutu, proponent of leftist revolution in South Africa; and New Ager Robert Muller, Ass't. Secretary General of the U.N., in charge of co-ordinating the work of 32 specialized agencies and world programs.

"Mother" Teresa also participated in the "Summit for Peace" in Assisi, Italy, in November 1986. This blasphemous prayer meeting was arranged by the Pope and was attended by leaders of many different religions, including Hindu, Buddhist, Islamic, Shinto, Sikh, and North American Indian--all of whom united in prayers for world peace (11/10/86 Time , pp. 78-79).

Re: - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2005/4/19 15:57

I think there are definitely some things we can definitely know for a surety about the Catholic Church system.

-It is a apostasted form of true Christianity that gives physical representation of true spiritual precepts. Jesus or the Apostles did not ever do this and it could be seen possibly in Jesus's last words to the Church body of believers in the letters of revelation in the system of Nicolaitism.

Revelation 2:15: So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitanes which thing I hate.

-That there were slaughtering of millions of Christians throughout the ages by the Catholic system.

Revelation 17:6: And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great admiration.

-That many of the doctrines of the Catholic Church goes against the true revelation and interpretation of Holy Scriptures revealed by God.

-Many reformed church believers and believers throughout the ages have believed the Catholic System to be the system of the Anti-Christ and that the Anti-Christ himself would be the pope.

But along with this is some believers in the Catholic system that hold onto the true teachings of Scriptures and revelation of the Son of God as a sacrifice for our sins alone.

Re: - posted by MrBillPro (), on: 2005/4/19 16:13

Quote:

sermonindex wrote:

That many of the doctrines of the Catholic Church goes against the true revelation and interpretation of Holy Scriptures revealed by God.

In Paul's second letter to the Thessalonians, he admonished them not to be deceived by any means - not by an evil spirit, nor by word of mouth, nor by a falsely written letter as if from him. This should caution all Christians to carefully check out any 'new' revelation spoken by a "new breed" of prophets (their terminology). I personally have found teachings, which do not align with Scripture. How do they handle that? They say that they are receiving from the spirit world 'advanced' truths not found in God's Word. We are told that since doctrine divides, we should lay aside doctrine for the sake of unity. Yet, paradoxically, to lay aside doctrine because it is divisive is a doctrine in itself! How can we keep the gospel pure if we lay its doctrines aside in order to welcome other beliefs?

Re:, on: 2005/4/19 16:14

Quote:

-----But along with this is some believers in the Catholic system that hold onto the true teachings of Scriptures and revelation of the Son of God as a sacrifice for our sins alone.

And to them, God says:

Rev 18:4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

Krispy

Re: - posted by IRONMAN (), on: 2005/4/19 22:30

Krispy

now how is it that you started this thread on the new pope...mmmm :-P

RE; New Pope - posted by Paulus (), on: 2005/4/20 6:55

As you can imagine the election of a new pope is a big event here in Ireland. Interestingly the popular view of being a Catholic is that you can pick and choose the want, this has allowed our culture get its head around the various scandals such as a Bishop who fathered a child, a well known priest who fathered two and lives with his mistress secretly, not to mention the child sex abuse cases.

Today I am praising God that Cardinal Ratzinger has become pope, because as he proclaims the "true faith" of his church, it will become clearer that they are so far from the doctrine of Grace and that they do not hold to the Bible. This is a great door of opportunity for the evangelicals/pentecostals to preach Christ and Him crucified.

So let's get harvesting

Paul

Re: RE; New Pope, on: 2005/4/20 7:59

Quote:

-----Today I am praising God that Cardinal Ratzinger has become pope, because as he proclaims the "true faith" of his church, it will become clearer that they are so far from the doctrine of Grace and that they do not hold to the Bible. This is a great door of opportunity for the evangelicals/pentecostals to preach Christ and Him crucified.

That is exactly what I thought, and what I so poorly expressed when I started this thread! Thank you for saying what I was thinking, brother!

Unfortunately though, as time progresses we are told that wickedness and deception will wax worse and worse. So on one hand, I think that for many Bible believing Christians the true nature of the RCC might finally become clear... the deception about the RCC will not get any better and in fact will get worse.

Krispy

Re: - posted by Angyl, on: 2005/4/20 11:37

You're absolutely right, Krispy. It is well to hope that as the RCC moves farther away from the truth and exposes its rotten innards to the world that people will have their eyes opened, but scripture teaches that more or less the OPPOSITE will happen. The RCC will sell the world its package of wickedness wrapped in a pretty bow...

Sin ALWAYS comes in a pretty package...

And the world will fall for it. Just look at all the soft-shoe, pussy-footing, corn-husking, kowtowing, soft-steppin, light-spoken, easy-goin, non-offendin', commiserating that all the big-name evangelicals in America gave to the Catholic church over the death of JPII! They praised that man in so many different ways as a man of God, and not one of them dared open their mouths to try to preach the truth of the Catholic church.

Worried about offending, I suppose...getting some backlash, perhaps...maybe losing some constituent$, even?

'far as I'm concerned, those men just dipped their hands in the blood of millions who are marching to hell.

Re:, on: 2005/4/20 11:41

Angyl... I agree. Amen. ... and people call me abrasive? LOL

By the way... "corn-husking"?? :-P

Krispy

Re: - posted by Angyl, on: 2005/4/20 11:48

Quote:

-----By the way... "corn-husking"??

It's a somewhat delicate work, as I understand...to make sure you don't pull out or damage the corn itself.

But then, you should know that, ya hick.

Re:, on: 2005/4/20 11:55

Quote:

-----But then, you should know that, ya hick.

We only use corn to make sour mash. Just a little yeast and some copper line...

Krispy

Re:, on: 2005/4/20 12:15

This from FoxNews.com:

"Wearing golden vestments and a white bishop's miter, Benedict, the 265th Bishop of Rome, opened the Mass with a prayer in Latin and was to deliver his first homily in Latin — a discourse that will be watched by millions for hints about priorities in his pontificate."

"Cardinals — also clad in gold — solemnly chanted the "Kyrie Eleison" hymn, Greek for "Lord have mercy.""

Intersting... look at this scripture again:

Rev 17:4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet color, and decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

I'm tellin' ya... if you cant see this, your eyes are closed!

Krispy

Re: - posted by Angyl, on: 2005/4/20 14:03

Quote:

-----We only use corn to make sour mash. Just a little yeast and some copper line...

What??

Who??

Nevermind... I don't want to know. Ignorance is bliss.

Re:, on: 2005/4/20 14:05

Quote:

-----Nevermind... I don't want to know. Ignorance is bliss.

Let's put it this way... if you drink enough of it you think you can uderstand all of Revelation... and the next day you think you're living it! LOL

Krispy

Re: - posted by MrBillPro (), on: 2005/4/20 14:06

I think he was talking about sour mash potatoes. :-?